Third Session Is Called to Decide Reapportionment

BOISE (AP) — Idaho legislators failed to reapportion by the end of their second special session on the subject Saturday — and were immediately called back into a third session to try again. Gov. Robert E. Smylie issued the call only hours after House opponents blocked with what he called "parliamentary gimmickery" a final vote on the so-called Sandberg Plan before the end of the session. "The use of parliamentary gimmickery to prevent solution of so important a problem as this," said Smylie, "is really unbecoming. It certainly doesn't meet the test of statesmanship which I had hoped would dominate this session."

Legislators in both the House and Senate fell silent as the governor's call was read and some showed surprise. But many had predicted Friday afternoon solution was impossible in the current session. Since the adjournment of the second special session came at 5:41 p.m. in the Senate and at 5:49 p.m. in the House.

Smylie limited the third special session to only one subject — reapportionment — and technical changes necessary to implement it including establishment of election laws either for the new reapportionment or for at-large elections statewide if necessary.

The third session convenes at 10 a.m. Monday.

The Sandberg Plan — for 35 districts in Idaho, each with one senator and two representatives — had passed the Senate 23-20 and had majority support in the House.

But it did not have a two-thirds majority — 53 votes — and that margin was required to suspend the rules so that the plan could come to an immediate vote.

Rules suspension failed Friday night 46-32 and it failed 45-32 on the second try Saturday morning. All House Democrats voted for suspension and they were joined by 10 Republicans the first time, 9 the second.

But backers of the Sandberg Plan predicted the measure would be back in the opening days of the new session and that this time it will pass.

There were some suggestions that it be revised so that it would provide for a House of uneven numbers. That would prevent a potential deadlock if the House were evenly divided between the two parties.

Several of the 35-70 plan's supporters charged that the block against suspension of rules had served only to force the decision into a new session at additional cost.

But a number of legislators doubted that reapportionment could have been enacted and new election laws established by Saturday night even if the rules had been suspended Saturday.

They believed reapportionment became impossible in the second session Friday afternoon when it became clear the plan's supporters did not have the necessary two-thirds to get rule suspension.

Rep. Hansen pays the study is expected to include the status of lease on present quarters and costs of constructing a new building.

The request for the study came after the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce and interested Shoshone citizens told Rep. Hansen the community needs a new post office.

WASHINGTON (Special) — Rep. George Hansen has asked the Post Office Department to investigate the need for a new post office at Shoshone.

The request went to James J. Symbol, Seattle, regional director for the Post Office Department.

Costly

BOISE (AP) — Special sessions of the 38th Idaho Legislature will cost taxpayers a minimum of about $240,000. Legislative records showed the cost of the one-week special session last March to be about $50,000. The 20-day session concluding Saturday cost about $140,000 and if the third session runs one week it would cost about $50,000.

Lawsuit on Sierra Merger Is Dismissed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A lawsuit challenging the merger of the Southern Equitable Life Insurance Co. of Little Rock with the Sierra Life Insurance Co. of Twin Falls, Idaho, was dismissed Saturday.

Federal Judge J. Smith Henley ruled federal court did not have jurisdiction because Herman Lane of Houston, Tex., who filed the lawsuit, did not have $10,000 worth of stock in Southern Equitable, which is required before the court can assume jurisdiction.

Lane filed suit Nov. 29, contending that he would not receive the "rightful value" for his stock in the exchange.

Southern Equitable's stockholders and the board of directors of the two companies already had approved the merger plan.

The surviving company is to be known as Sierra Life, with offices at Twin Falls and a regional home office at Little Rock.

Army Troops Deployed to Crush Revolt

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian government deployed army troops in two areas on eastern India Saturday in campaigns to crush a jungle tribal revolt and to stem city rioting.

The double eruption of violence confronted Prime Minister Indira Gandhi with her worst crisis since taking office in January, and she conferred with India's emergency cabinet on what strategy to follow.

Mizo tribesmen, skilled guerrilla fighters, increased their week-long attacks on government posts in southeast Assam state. They captured one town, surrounded another and ambushed government troops marching to the rescue.

Assam officials said the situation was "grim" as they fought to contain the tough Mizos, who want an independent state carved out of their mountains and forests.

Tribesmen cut roads and communication lines so that New Delhi lacked a complete picture of what was happening in the isolated area. The government radio said 21 Mizos were killed and 9 captured in one clash.

Have Influence in This Twentieth Century? Speakers later in the day will be Buster Holcomb, Boise congregation, and Donald W. Emshoff, circuit supervisor.

Opening the Sunday meeting will be George Sargent and Kenneth McKinney, overseer of the Idaho Congregation, will be chairman of Sunday's meeting.

Attending the conference are representatives from 17 southern Idaho and eastern Oregon congregations, along with church officials from throughout the area.

Deadly Blizzard Rages in Parts of Minnesota, Dakota

FARGO, N. D. (AP) — A deadly and devastating blizzard eased in some sectors Saturday but raged for the fourth day in other parts of Minnesota and the Dakotas. The Weather Bureau called it one of the most savage blizzards in recorded history. A "crawl-out" began in Western North and South Dakota, where cities and towns were benumbed and isolated by the combination of heavy snow and winds.

Seven persons were known dead. Authorities feared the toll would rise. At least 12 persons remained missing.

Searchers found the frozen body of Betty Dieder, 13, a North Dakota farm girl who never returned to her home after she went to a chicken coop 100 feet away to close a banging door.

The body was located about half a mile from the house. Swirling snow was so treacherous and visibility so poor that searchers feared to separate. Groups of six men tied themselves together. (See BLIZZARD, Page 2, Col. 7)

Record Air Strike Counts 665 Dead

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Battle reports told Saturday of a record air strike of 61 missions over North Viet Nam, with a missile site among the targets, and the death of 665 Communist troops in heavy action in the South. U. S. Marines, Vietnamese troops and planes slashed at enemy soldiers seeking to flee entrapment in coastal Quang Ngai Province. The allies said they had killed 466 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars in the fight that erupted Friday northwest of Quang Ngai City, the capital. Paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade clashed with a reinforced North Vietnamese battalion below Tuy Hoa, on the coast 240 miles northeast of Saigon. They reported 105 enemy dead and four machine guns among captured arms.

A battalion of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division, in a dawn battle on a rubber plantation about 40 miles north of Saigon, drove off an encircling enemy after killing 50 and capturing four.

Three squadrons of jet fighters-bombers caught a Viet Cong detachment in the open in the central highlands 100 miles northeast of Saigon and mowed down 44 of them.

Over-all allied casualties were reported light, but a U.S. Marine company was among units hit hard and three aircraft were lost.

The Marine company, returning for its dead on a barren hill it held for a while in the Quang Ngai actions Friday, had to call in elements of another company to help carry them back.

The opinion of Taylor, retired general and former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was made in a written addition to his public testimony at the Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing Feb. 17.

To date, the North Viet Nam capital of Hanoi and the main supply harbor of Haiphong have been spared bombing or action by U.S. air and naval forces.

Taylor's advocacy of closing the harbor came in answer to 28 questions by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., submitted Feb. 17 for written replies to save time during the televised hearing.

DEATHS REPORTED — BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Four deaths blamed on yellow fever were reported Saturday in Misiones Province, one of four northeastern Argentine provinces afflicted by floods.

124 Perish When Jetliner Breaks up Over Mount Fuji

GOTEMBA, Japan (AP) — A British jetliner with 124 persons — at least 84 of them Americans — broke up in the freakish air over Mt. Fuji Saturday and fluttered like a leaf down to disaster on the sacred mountain's slopes. BOAC officials in New York said there were 90 American aboard. Aviation experts, probing the wreckage, said Sunday freak air currents and sudden severe winds may have ripped the plane apart minutes after take off from Tokyo's International Airport.

Japanese soldiers working under a full moon carried down the bodies of all 124 victims and placed them in wooden coffins in a Buddhist temple in Gotemba, 70 miles south of Tokyo.

Among the Americans were 75 persons on an Asian tour sponsored by the Thermo King Corp. of Minneapolis, Minn., a refrigeration equipment firm. Three top company officials and many of the firm's key dealers in the United States and their wives were among the dead.

There was Charles Galbo, 52, Cheektowaga, N.Y., who told a friend back home before he left: "I don't think I'll see you any more."

African Meet Comes to Stormy End

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — The stormiest conference in the three-year life of the Organization of African Unity (OAU) came to an end Saturday night with a final tally of eight nations staging walkouts and one registering a protest by remaining only as an observer.

OAU's handling of the Rhodesian crisis and the meeting's recognition of a delegation from the new military regime in Ghana brought on the split.

After six days of angry debate, charge and countercharge, the foreign ministers' conference finally adopted a resolution on Rhodesia calling on Britain to apply "effective measures including the use of force" to bring about the downfall of Prime Minister Ian Smith's rebel regime. It calls on member states to bring pressure to bear on the U.N. Security Council to "examine" the use of mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia.

For the first time, a resolution on apartheid has assailed Japan, West Germany, France and Italy on grounds of increasing trade with South Africa.

Communist China, which in the past has been criticized by individual African nations for doing the same, was not cited. In addition, the United States, Britain, West Germany and France were condemned for increasing investments in South Africa.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Saturday it had conducted a low-yield underground nuclear test at its Nevada testing site.

It was the sixth announced weapons-related test to be conducted during 1966. A low-yield blast is less than the equivalent of an explosion of 20,000 tons of TNT.

LANDS SAFELY — MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An Eastern Airlines Boeing 727 passenger jet belly landed safely at Miami International Airport Saturday after its landing gear stuck. None of the 101 persons aboard was hurt.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson appears to have stemmed temporarily the tide of criticism of his Viet Nam policies — but at the cost of senatorial resentment that may affect other programs.

While dissenters haven't yet talked themselves out, they reluctantly are conceding their inability to persuade their colleagues that Congress ought to lay a restraining hand on Johnson's conduct of the war.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., already has forecast rejection by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of two policy riders proposed to a $415-million foreign aid bill authorizing an immediate stepup in economic assistance to South Viet Nam.

The other, by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., would shake it clear that passage of the aid bill involves no endorsement of Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

McGovern said that if the committee rejects his proposal he will not press it in the Senate.

But the frustration of the President's critics provided the impetus for Foreign Relations Committee decision to subtract the $275-million emergency Viet Nam aid from the $3.2-billion general foreign aid program for 1967 when it comes along later.

Science Center May Get Federal Funds

Herrett's Arts and Science Center soon will ask more than $250,000 in federal assistance to vastly expand its facilities and personnel. Norman Herrett reported Saturday that as a result of conversations with Richard Kay, Idaho State Department of Education consultant for Science and Mathematics, he will submit an application for a federal National Defense Education Act grant. Kay stated in a communication received by

Herrett that "The Herrett Arts and Science Center seems to be tailored to fit a project . . ."

Under the act, he said, "It would be possible to secure a rather sizeable grant to develop this into one of the finest centers for learning in this region."

"I do not believe a modest proposal should be prepared," he said. "In planning for the financial aspects for the facilities, we should not limit our imagination by financial considerations."

"The amount of money available under this act is limited, but in terms of what has been done within this state, the amount seems almost staggering."

According to Herrett, founder of the well-known arts and science center, the request is far from modest.

He will seek a grant to build a 100-by-150-foot, two-story pre-stressed concrete structure with a basement. The building will house a new planetarium with a 35-foot dome and a capacity

Weather, Temperatures

MAGIC VALLEY — Considerable cloudiness with a chance for a few sprinkles of rain or a few flakes of snow. Lows, today 20 to 30, highs in the 40's, except for Camas Prairie, highs 25 to 35, lows in teens. Winds southerly, 10 to 20 miles an hour Sunday. Temperature forecasts: Gooding, 46 to 50; Jerome, 47 to 53; Buhl, 46 to 52; Twin Falls, 45 to 52; Burley, 44 to 52; Rupert, 45 to 52; Fairfield, 33 to 45. High Saturday in Twin Falls 40, low 17, with 41 per cent humidity, 38 at 3 p.m. Barometer, 30.33.

SYNOPSIS AND AGRICULTURAL SUMMARY

High pressure over Montana, Idaho and Utah is weakening slowly while an intense low pressure system in the Gulf of Alaska expands a bit further inland. Moist air circulating from the Gulf shore storm into the Intermountain Region will cause considerable cloudiness over all of southern Idaho during the next two days. Showers and snow flurries will be seen over the mountain areas, but only sprinkles of rain or a few flakes of snow are expected in the agricultural valleys.

Windy conditions will continue in the western and central agricultural valleys and will spread to eastern sections.

Mrs. Morley Dies at Home In Hazelton

HAZELTON — Mrs. Evelyn L. Morley, 67, died at her home Saturday morning.

Mrs. Morley was born in West Fitchburg, Mass., July 20, 1898, and had been a resident of Hazelton for the past three and one-half years.

She was a member of the Hazelton Presbyterian Church, United Presbyterian Women, Hazelton American War Mothers and Temple Chapter No. 45, Order of the Eastern Star.

She worked for the Plymouth division of Chrysler Corp. for 30 years and was married to Harold Barrett on Dec. 25, 1918, at Leominster, Mass. He died in 1938 in a drowning accident. She then married Ernest J. Morley on Nov. 19, 1956. He died June 30, 1962, at Fitchburg, Mass.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Gerard K. Baker, Hazelton; son, Richard L. Barrett, Livonia, Mich.; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services are pending.

Mt. Fuji

Japanese witnesses said they saw the plane break apart, then swirl down like a leaf, trailing fire and white smoke. Its wreckage scattered over a wide area on the rugged slopes and set fire to trees and brush in some places.

It was Japan's second major air disaster within 19 hours and the third in a month. In history's worst commercial air disaster involving a single plane, 133 persons perished in a Japanese Boeing-727 jetliner that plunged into Tokyo Bay Feb. 4.

Ironically, as the doomed BOAC jet taxied out for take off Saturday afternoon it passed the wreckage at Haneda Airport of a Canadian Pacific DC-8 jetliner that crashed while landing in a fog Friday night, killing 64 of 72 persons on board.

The three crashes took 321 lives.

Officials from Britain and Canada were en route to Tokyo to investigate the causes of the last two crashes.

Death still lingered over the scene of the Japanese airline crash. Officials reported that a helicopter in the continuing search for bodies plunged into Tokyo Bay, killing two of five crewmen on board.

Just minutes after the BOAC 707 took off at 1:58 p.m. for Hong Kong en route to London, the Tokyo Weather Bureau issued a severe wind warning.

At noon, the Weather Bureau said the winds at Mt. Fuji were a sustained 70 miles an hour and three hours later a sustained 88 miles an hour, with gusts likely to be higher.

Officials at the scene said the winds and air currents could have overcome the plane, then braced its fall.

Volunteers for PTA Job Asked

Volunteers have been asked by the PTA to donate services during March Maintenance Month at Bickel School.

The volunteer service would be in the maintenance of the welfare room at the old hospital. Interested persons were asked to contact the school committee to nominate a slate of officers for next year has been named, and includes Kenneth Shaw, Mrs. Janelle Arrington and Mrs. Imogene Heath.

Andrew Chromey Taken by Death

Andrew M. Chromey, 78, 435 Third St. W., died Saturday morning in Twin Falls Clinic Hospital of a brief illness.

He was born June 15, 1887, in St. Paul, Minn., and came here from Wyoming in 1922. He worked for many years as a cigar maker and in later years worked as a shepherd. Mr. Chromey was a veteran of World War I, serving in the U.S. Army in France. He was a member of the Catholic Church.

Surviving are a brother, Frank Chromey, and a sister, Mrs. Arthur Hansen, both Seattle. His wife, Nan, died in 1949. Graveside services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Twin Falls Cemetery, with Rev. Edgar's Catholic Church, officiating. The cortege will leave Reynolds Funeral Chapel at 10:45 a.m. Friends may call at the chapel Monday and until 10:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Man Hospitalized After Car Crash

A 26-year-old Twin Falls man was hospitalized at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Friday night after a one-vehicle accident on Locust Street South.

Impaired, and later charged with driving while intoxicated, was Owen S. Arent, 318 Washington St.

According to police Arent's car, a 1963 Ford pickup truck, began skidding as it entered Locust Street from Osterloh Avenue. The left wheels dropped into the gutter, the car continued down the left gutter for 138 feet, collided with a telephone pole and broke it off, and knocked it 11 feet from its base.

Police said the car left 79 feet of skid marks before leaving the roadway.

According to police Arent was not wearing a seat belt.

Infant Dies

Scott Stanford Slaughter, 3-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Slaughter, 216 1/2 Elm St., died at his parents' home Saturday morning of a brief illness.

He was born in Twin Falls on Dec. 8, 1963.

Surviving, besides his parents, are one brother, John Slaughter, Twin Falls, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Van Noy, Wendell, and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Gowing, San Francisco, Calif.

Graveside services will be held at Salt Lake City cemetery at 3 p.m. Tuesday. Friends may call at Twin Falls Mortuary Sunday and Monday.

Palbearers were Hubert (Red) Walker, Roy M. Keas, Frank J. Nielsen, and Richard J. Simmons.

Mrs. Jones Is Taken by Death

JEROME — Mrs. Josephine Mildred Jones, 76, died Saturday night at her home of a long illness.

She was born Nov. 10, 1889, in Latium, Tex., and spent her early life in Texas. She married William Jones on July 28, 1923, in Salem, Ore. They lived for several years in Oregon.

Surviving besides her husband are a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Kirchner, Nampa, and five grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Monday in Hove Funeral Chapel. Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Jerome's Catholic Church with Rev. Bernard McBride as celebrant. Last rites will follow at Buhl Cemetery. Friends may call Monday and until time of services Tuesday at Hove Funeral Chapel.

Underwriters to Hear Economist

Dr. Elroy Nelson, Ph.D., vice president and economist of the First Security Corp., Salt Lake City, will address the meeting of the Southern Idaho Association of Life Underwriters at noon Monday in the Rogerson Hotel Roundup Room.

His talk will be on "Current Economic Conditions." Dr. Nelson, currently chairman of the Utah State Building Board, the Fulbright-Hays Scholarship Advisory Committee for Utah and is a member of the Natural Resource Committee, Associated Utah Chambers of Commerce and the Executive Committee of the Utah Committee on Industrial and Employment Planning.

He is editor of the Idaho Construction Report, a monthly publication.

Fort Hall Pair Killed in Wreck

BLACKFOOT (AP) — A young Fort Hall couple was killed in an automobile accident Saturday night on a mile north of Fort Hall, Bingham County, Coroner Carl Sayle said.

The victims were Susan Pokibro, 21, and McNeven, 25. McNeven died at the scene a few minutes after the accident.

Baker was brought into court by H. E. Clark, district parole officer. He violated his parole Feb. 28 when he was apprehended by James Ainsworth in the process of stealing gas at the Ainsworth residence, according to the court.

Buhl Women Are Injured In Accident

Two Buhl women were in fairly good condition in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Saturday night following a two-car collision at the intersection of a county road and U.S. 93, one mile south of the U.S. 30-U.S. 93 junction Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Julia Bishop, 57, and Mrs. Zola Simpson, 54, both Route 1, Buhl, were passengers in a 1964 Chevrolet pickup driven by Fred H. Simpson, 58, Buhl.

According to State Patrolman Frank Mogensen, who investigated the Simpson truck was traveling west on the county road and had stopped for a stop sign at U.S. 93.

Simpson told officers he waited for an unidentified vehicle to make a left turn onto the county road, then pulled onto the intersection where he hit a 1956 Ford pickup truck driven by Deputy Sheriff Charles L. Eggleston, 65, 545 Heyburn Ave. W.

The impact spun the Eggleston truck around where it came to rest broadside in the highway.

The unidentified vehicle was making a left turn onto the county road when he was hit.

Simpson, who was cited for failure to yield the right of way, told officers he looked but didn't see the Eggleston truck.

Both women were thrown out by the impact after a door to the Simpson truck came open.

Blizzard

selves together with rope, and fanned out over the snow drifts.

Searchers said the storm was "terrible" as they hunted.

The tales of those who survived in stalled cars were harrowing.

Three basketball coaches from Fort Yates, N.D., missing for over 50 hours, were rescued Saturday by a search party which followed a rotary plow.

The coaches' car broke down Wednesday, and the blowing snow was so fierce they didn't dare set out afoot in a quest for shelter.

To keep from freezing, they ripped fence posts loose and burned them in the car. The men had nothing to eat but three sweet rolls, and snow.

Three other men who vanished in North Dakota Wednesday trudged to a farm house when the wind dropped off. They said they stayed in their car and ran the engine intermittently for heat after the car became stuck.

Snowplows began churning the mountainous drifts where the storm abated. In areas where the blizzard continued in full force, there was no automobile travel and walking was virtually impossible in the deep, crusted snow.

Only snowmobiles, little motorized vehicles on tracks, kept going. Police used the rigs as emergency squad cars.

The Weather Bureau said the blizzard "undoubtedly" was the worst in recorded history. The record-breaking snow included 35 inches at Moorbridge, S.D. Brook, N.D., had a record 19 1/2 inches in a 24-hour span. Other heavy snowfalls included 14 inches within 24 hours at Grand Forks, N.D., where a total of 29 fell, and 12 inches at Aberdeen, S.D., for a storm total of 17 inches.

Agenda Is Listed For Board Meet

Routine matters will largely dominate the 7:30 p.m. Monday meeting of the Twin Falls City Commission.

In addition to approval of building permits, licenses and department reports for the month of February, the commissioners will consider a resolution increasing the maximum annual earnings for retired employees past 65 years of age from $1,200 to $1,500, for part-time employment.

The third and final reading of a proposed ordinance regulating and restricting placing of abandoned cars, household goods and equipment on public or private property will be conducted.

An ordinance annexing Shoshone Acres Subdivision No. 3 will be proposed.

Question Is Raised in Mott's Death

MOSCOW (AP) — Impersonal London teacher Gerald Brooke told a British Embassy official who visited him Friday that he had never been permitted to shave himself during nearly a year in jail. Instead, Brooke said he shaved by prison guards and he believes this is standard procedure.

Brooke's disclosure raised an immediate question as to how American Newcomb Mott got hold of razor blades with which he allegedly cut his throat aboard a prison train en route to a labor camp.

They have not officially identified the instrument that made the fatal wounds, but Moscow Radio implied that razor blades sent to Mott from the U.S. Embassy were involved.

The embassy is awaiting a promised full report by the Soviets before commenting on the suicide explanation.

Mott, of Sheffield, Mass., was sentenced to 18 months for entering the Soviet Union without a visa.

Brooke, serving a five-year sentence for passing out anti-Soviet literature here, is due to be transferred from prison to a labor camp next month.

He knows about the Mott case and has told British Embassy officials he fears his pending transfer to the labor camp.

Johnson

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., signaled that this measure is likely to come under heavy attack in the Senate. Hartke, not a foreign relations committee man, was spokesman for 15 senators who protested the resumption of North Viet Nam bombings.

"I am certainly not going to be happy about taking money from the Great Seal programs at home and spending it in Asia," he said.

This is a sore spot with the Democratic liberals who have been loudest in their attacks on Johnson for permitting the costly escalation of U.S. military forces in Viet Nam.

They have discovered in reading the fine print of the new budget that, to make room for a $10.5-billion increase in Viet Nam costs, Johnson cut fund requests for some programs closest to their hearts.

Addition to T. F. Church Is Planned

Members of the Twin Falls First Baptist Church have voted to construct a Christian education wing to the present edifice at Shoshone Street and Ninth Avenue which will provide an additional 8,000 square feet of classroom and activity space.

The new wing, to cost in excess of $100,000, will connect with the northeast corner of the building, and run east along the alley side of the property. Low bidder for the building was Earl Peck Construction Co., Twin Falls.

The building, which will be of the same brick exterior as the present plant, will provide four-teen additional class and ac-tivity rooms, along with a li-brary room and other facilities.

Clyde VanAusdeln, chairman of the building committee, re-ports when the construction is completed, a house owned by the church on Ninth Avenue, presently used for classrooms, will be removed from the prop-erty and this area will be paved for parking facilities.

VanAusdeln stated some changes in the present structure also will be made, providing for more efficient use of the plant. These will include grouping of staff offices and improvement of classrooms in the original build-ing, some of which have already been completed.

Rev. Ernest Hasselblad, pas-tor, said continued growth of the congregation created the need for the additional space. The present building, complet-ed in 1951, has not been ade-quate for the Sunday School for several years, necessitating use of the house on Ninth Avenue for some of the children's classes.

A dinner was held at the church Wednesday night, at which many of the church families made three-year fi-nancial commitments to the building project. John Bishop, chairman of the building finance committee, reports the pledges have come in very well and he anticipates no problem in providing adequate financing for the project.

Easy to Miss

No one should feel badly about the results of the special census in Twin Falls. It's easy to miss on guesses of population gains in spite of all the factors considered. Water connections can increase, electric service can increase, new homes can be built by the dozens, and yet population will grow slowly or even decline. The answer is always found in the older parts of the city and it's easy to overlook when estimating population.

In the case of Twin Falls, significant decreases were found in the old townsite and South Park. It's not surprising. In both sections, there probably are noticeably fewer children now than five years ago. In five years, children can finish high school and move away. Then there's the matter of improved family economy. As more money becomes available, it's quite natural for families to move into better neighborhoods or even build a new house. The latter procedure directs attention to new subdivisions but doesn't increase population.

The other factor that's not readily apparent in the older section of community is the normal death rate. Senior citizens are found in greater numbers in the older parts of a city. Some may have resided in the same house for a number of years, raising families, and seeing them leave home. When one dies, the other spouse usually will go on living at the same address. But if the survivor should move, there's a good chance the old home won't be occupied in a hurry. There's even a chance that utilities will remain connected indefinitely, giving no obvious indication of an empty house.

On the surface, none of these factors may seem important, but collectively they can account for a marked difference between estimated population and actual population. And individually they are so subtle as to escape detection by anyone except an expert in the field. These are the reasons why virtually every community has a tendency to overestimate its population.

No one should conclude the special census here was wasted effort. Apparently the city will receive enough additional funds to justify the cost of the census. In addition, the census provided information that couldn't have been obtained any other way. It might give everyone just a little better idea of what's happening in the city and why. And if the population growth continues at the same rate for the next five years, everyone will be prepared for what the regular census shows.

SMALL POTATOES

Members of Idaho's Legislature don't take kindly to criticism of any type. Any idea originating outside the hallowed halls of the Statehouse will meet certain disapproval because of the traditional trust in the infallibility of legislators. Reasonable criticism based on logical approaches invariably is met with resistance or with the bland explanation, "You don't understand the problem."

But a new law has been established in reaction to criticism in the Legislature. The Lewiston Morning Tribune criticized one of those hopeless attempts at reapportionment, an attempt that obviously wouldn't meet the test of the one-man, one-vote rule. One of the sponsors, Sen. Charles Winkler, D-Adams, asked in the Senate to take exception. He asked unanimous consent to have the sergeant-at-arms throw copies of the Lewiston Tribune into the garbage can. There was no dissent. Later, Lt. Gov. W. E. Drevlow, president of the Senate, lamely explained he thought the whole thing was a joke.

Still later, Sen. Perry Swisher, R-Barnock, who also is a newsman, said banning of the Tribune from the Senate should not be regarded as an expression of opinion of the entire Senate. One might ask where Mr. Swisher was when Sen. Winkler asked for unanimous consent, which was automatic in the absence of any objection. He added, "The public might get the impression that whenever a newspaper disagrees with the views of the Legislature, it goes into the garbage can." If the public gets that sort of impression from the behavior of legislators, there's ample reason.

When Idaho's lawmakers react violently to criticism, they should be reminded they are the duly elected representatives of the people. They are supposed to reflect the wishes of the public, they are sent to Boise to transact public business and should strive to accomplish whatever is in the best interest of the majority. They aren't sent to Boise to play petty politics and look out for their own best interests.

So far as Sen. Winkler is concerned, he has nominated himself for the small potatoes award of the year. The Lewiston Tribune should consider the source and take pride in being relegated to the garbage can.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON — No matter who runs Ghana from here in, it'll be long and painful years before that unhappy country recovers from its romance with a lower-case Fidel Castro. International economists here say Ghana is virtually bankrupt, its economy held together only by credit extended on this year's cocoa crop.

Nkrumah ruled Ghana for nine years after becoming the first African to win independence for his country, and he went to pot gradually — a paranoiac jackanapes who awarded himself the title of "Redeemer," had himself proclaimed president for life and otherwise revealed all the characteristic of the half-baked dictator. Hitler had a certain raffish competence; Nkrumah is merely a fool.

BLOWING A BILLION PLUS — Figures are dull reading, but in the case of Ghana they tell a story with all the horrible fascination of a late, late show. When Ghana became independent in March, 1957, it had a nest egg of $500 million in foreign reserves. Western governments, particularly that amiable Santa Claus in Washington, were bruised in the rush to lend Nkrumah a hand, to say nothing of big bags of money. Foreign investors were rhapsodic about the country's economic future once it eased its dependence on cocoa, its main source of revenue.

Then Nkrumah raced off in his pursuit of national bankruptcy. Aided and abetted by his Communist pals — who lent more advice than hard cash — he set about to transform Black Africa's most flourishing economy into a socialist paradise. Today, Ghana has no foreign exchange reserves. It has, however, an external debt of $700 million, mostly in short-term, high-interest loans. Its currency sells for one-third of its face value outside the country.

Until Nkrumah got the hook from the army, his Western banker friends would have nothing to do with the country. They demanded major economic reforms before even considering Nkrumah's demands for massive aid. Nkrumah told the West to drop dead and turned to Communist money-lenders. They offered him useless barter deals, but no hard currency.

FROM FEAST TO HUNGER — The cost of living rose 10 per cent in 1964 to 25 per cent in the first three quarters of 1965. Once its own breadbasket, Ghana in 1965 was spending 32 per cent of its shipping money abroad on food items. When flour is available, native women stage fist fights over it at the markets. The civil service, once the best in black Africa, is overrun with political appointees.

And, of course, instead of minding the store Nkrumah worked at polishing up his divinity. He ordered his tame journalists to proclaim his "humility," and at the same time refer to him as "Your messianic dedication, he who speaks once and for all, he who always does the right thing." He denuded the judiciary by framing and discharging his best judges on charges of plotting against his regime.

There are diplomats here, some in the State Department, who say Nkrumah's downfall will be a lesson to the would-be straw bosses in other emerging countries in Africa. They're just whistling "Dixie." Until Western governments insist on tying strings to their aid, jokers like Nkrumah will continue to steal them blind.

Views of Others

BLOOM'S STILL ON BOOM

The bloom's still on the boom. Now in its fifth year of expansion, the American economy has set a record, according to the National Bureau of Economic Research which reports that since 1854 the average length of a boom has been 30 months, but the current one is now in its 60th month. To what is this longevity due? For one thing, to a bigger market resulting from an increase in American population of 13 million since Feb. 1, 1961. Secondly, during the same period per capita production and distribution increased and consumption of material goods rose sharply.

Since the trigger date of Feb. 1, 1961, U.S. population has increased 7 per cent, personal income 35 per cent, retail sales 33 per cent, industrial production 43 per cent, construction 28 per cent and employment 10 per cent.

Thus the statisticians paint a rosy picture of the American economy. However, there are some dark spots. One is the fact that we are approaching the limits of manpower and productive capacity and another is the great expansion of credit.

As for the limitations on manpower, economists point out that unemployment has been cut to 4 per cent and they regard 3 per cent as the irreducible minimum. In fact, among married men, the principal source of manpower, the unemployment rate has dropped to 1.8 per cent.

In regard to the limitation on productive capacity the same economists cite figures to show that the U.S. is now operating plants at 91 per cent capacity now as contrasted with 77 per cent five years ago.

The credit load also concerns many. They point out the consumer credit, largely of the installment variety, has risen 50 per cent in the last five years and mortgage debt a similar percentage. The viewers with alarm fear any belt-tightening because "of overextension will slow down consumption in favor of debt liquidation."

The optimists, on the other hand, minimize the dangers of credit and expect the generation coming up to supply needed manpower and plants under construction to up productive capacity.

As usual, in the field of economics, only time will tell who is right. — The Missoulian.

LEARNING BY DOING

Persons who were shocked recently when a psychiatrist suggested that children should be taught how to drink in school got another jolt the other night when a TV news program showed a group of New Jersey high school students shooting craps and playing cards in a classroom.

The class in mathematics was studying probability and the math teacher decided the best way to teach the odds in favor of or against something occurring was to have the kids deal the pasteboards and throw the dice. One of the students had already learned that, if your point is nine, the chances are a seven will come up before a nine does. Undoubtedly the kids have discovered also that drawing to an inside straight is a risky business.

Moralists should not be as offended by this as they were by the drinking-in-school suggestion. If kids learn that winning at cards and dice is pretty uncertain they may swear off gambling before they really start.

It's a good thing, though, that this was not also a class in drinking. A snootful makes a card player or crap shooter throw probabilities aside and gamble on the worst conceivable odds. A student might win in such circumstances, as adults sometimes do, and he'd be ruined for life. — The Oregonian.

Poor Man's Plato

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "I get all bubbly at applause," said the durable blond in the green scarf. "I get billy bumps all over me."

At 46, Lana Turner, whose life reads like a cycle of soap operas, still enjoys the role she has played the longest — that of a reigning movie glamour queen.

As a child she was a high school cheerleader and wanted to become a nurse. She and her widowed mother knew real poverty.

The movie moguls waded a few wands and changed all that. They changed teen-aged little Julie Jean Mildred Frances Turner into Lana Turner. They changed her sad rags into "the sweater girl," into a top film star. At 25, she was earning $4,500 a week and had won a name as one of Hollywood's best-known playgirls.

The years have brought her tragedy, wealth, as fortune and fame, but have never taken away her zest.

Interpreting The News

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — While his critics and supporters on Viet Nam scuffle on the beach of public opinion, President Johnson has avoided making a detailed explanation of his case to the nation in a way that would give him the widest public audience and greatly help public understanding.

Doing it would be simple enough: If the White House announced well in advance that the President was going to make such an explanation to the nation at night it would be televised and broadcast, undoubtedly by all the networks, and thus get him maximum audience and attention.

For some reason not clear he has not done so, although he has sought to express his views publicly in other but less effective ways.

Last week, for instance, he made a major address in New York on Viet Nam but the nation was not informed well enough in advance to be looking for it. The result: only one major television network carried it at 9:30 p.m. Other networks carried a rerun after their 11 p.m. newscasts but by then a lot of people who might have listened earlier were in bed.

The other day he held a news conference, in which he discussed Viet Nam at length, but insisted beforehand that it not be televised at all.

Previously he had held a rather impromptu news conference with reporters at the White House but there was practically no advance notice on this. And when he decided to go to Hanoi to meet with the South Vietnamese leaders, the whole thing was announced suddenly, again losing maximum attention.

Capital Report

By WILLIAM RYAN

The troubles of the North Viet Nam Communists and those of the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam may be more extensive and serious than generally supposed.

Propaganda directed at both the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong implies fear at top levels that there is growing weariness with the war.

Indeed, a North Vietnamese general warned in a Hanoi paper that "the regional troops, the people's armed security forces and the self-defense militia must remain constantly vigilant and ready to put down any rebellion if it breaks out."

Lower-level party leaders in North Viet Nam have been warned to be careful about "bossing" and "coercing" the masses, because "to a party in power, the greatest peril is separation from the masses."

Discipline in President Ho Chi Minh's party has shown signs of breaking down, at least at lower levels. There have been indications of frequent shakeups at those levels. A high-ranking Politburo member said in an article that the Communists must eliminate from the party those members who are too weak and who cannot make progress after being educated.

In a later article Maj. Gen. Hoang Van Thai added this note:

"It is necessary to develop the function of the people's administration in suppressing reactionary elements, controlling the backward elements and educating backward persons."

Radio propaganda directed at Viet Cong forces in the South also reflects concern. Viet Cong forces have been warned by the guerrillas' underground radio that "a number of comrades have shown signs of flagging morale and that this has created difficulties."

The Hanoi general's article fitted into a pattern laid out early in February in a long, involved statement by an influential Politburo member, Le Duc Tho. He complained that "certain comrades" entertained ideas of pacifism and failed "to get ideologically ready for combat."

That statement hinted at division in the party. It upbraided those "who see only difficulties, display pessimism and perplexity and reluctance to protracted resistance."

Both Tho and Thai warned against "relying on outside aid." This indicated that far from satisfactory help was coming from the Soviet Union, in particular, to meet the complex economic and military problems Hanoi faces.

Interpreting The News

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — While his critics and supporters on Viet Nam scuffle on the beach of public opinion, President Johnson has avoided making a detailed explanation of his case to the nation in a way that would give him the widest public audience and greatly help public understanding.

Doing it would be simple enough: If the White House announced well in advance that the President was going to make such an explanation to the nation at night it would be televised and broadcast, undoubtedly by all the networks, and thus get him maximum audience and attention.

For some reason not clear he has not done so, although he has sought to express his views publicly in other but less effective ways.

Last week, for instance, he made a major address in New York on Viet Nam but the nation was not informed well enough in advance to be looking for it. The result: only one major television network carried it at 9:30 p.m. Other networks carried a rerun after their 11 p.m. newscasts but by then a lot of people who might have listened earlier were in bed.

The other day he held a news conference, in which he discussed Viet Nam at length, but insisted beforehand that it not be televised at all.

Previously he had held a rather impromptu news conference with reporters at the White House but there was practically no advance notice on this. And when he decided to go to Hanoi to meet with the South Vietnamese leaders, the whole thing was announced suddenly, again losing maximum attention.

Capital Report

By WILLIAM RYAN

The troubles of the North Viet Nam Communists and those of the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam may be more extensive and serious than generally supposed.

Propaganda directed at both the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong implies fear at top levels that there is growing weariness with the war.

Indeed, a North Vietnamese general warned in a Hanoi paper that "the regional troops, the people's armed security forces and the self-defense militia must remain constantly vigilant and ready to put down any rebellion if it breaks out."

Lower-level party leaders in North Viet Nam have been warned to be careful about "bossing" and "coercing" the masses, because "to a party in power, the greatest peril is separation from the masses."

Discipline in President Ho Chi Minh's party has shown signs of breaking down, at least at lower levels. There have been indications of frequent shakeups at those levels. ## MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

CHICAGO — When Sen. Paul H. Douglas toured the southern Illinois counties on the Mississippi River at the start of his campaign for re-election recently he found his audience of voters concerned with only one subject. That was the war in Viet Nam and why the United States is increasingly committed with ground troops to a land war in Southeast Asia.

For Douglas, a 74-year-old Chicago industrialist, Douglas has the most formidable foe of his political career. In 1964 Percy conducted a vigorous, appealing campaign for governor against the Democratic incumbent, Otto Kerner, only to be carried down by the Goldwater undertow.

Under normal circumstances Douglas would be an odds-on favorite, with little doubt of his victory. Over the years and not just at election time he has gone up and down the state talking seriously and solemnly to the voters about the great issues. Furthermore, Percy is resented by the right wing of his own party because of his moderate views.

But circumstances are not normal, since concern and uncertainty over America's role in Southeast Asia have injected a wholly unpredictable element into this year's election. While Percy is an honorable man and he will not talk about warmongers and spilling the blood of American boys in Asia, which was the Republican line in the Korean War, others are sure to beat this drum. And even if it should not be formally injected into the campaign it promises to be an underlying theme.

Furthermore, opposition to the war in Viet Nam is linked to the civil rights movement and the spreading unrest within the Negro ghettos. The Black Muslims, holding their convention here, heard their leader, Elijah Muhammad, denounce the drafting of his most famous follower, Cassius Clay, and the action of Governor Kerner in initiating the cancellation of Clay's match with the Ernie Terrell in Chicago. Clay had made widely publicized remarks taking after the draft board for classifying him I-A.

In order to win Douglas must roll up a massive vote in Cook County and Chicago where Mayor Richard J. Daley is the overlord. Daley has got crosswise of the civil rights leaders on de facto school segregation and other troubling issues. He now finds the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. with a base for aggressive nonviolent action established in a Negro slum. What can come out of this in mounting tensions on each side of the color line no one can predict.

The old order is swiftly changing and if 10 to 15 per cent of the Negro vote should shift to the Republican candidate it could spell defeat for Douglas. Percy recently made a spectacular gesture in going to Jackson, Miss., to speak to an integrated audience on civil rights, despite the bitter opposition of Republican leaders in that state. He took the opportunity to say that the Republican Party could never win national elections with the Southern strategy of the rightists seeking to out-demagogue the Democrats on their home ground on the racial issue.

In 1964 Dick Gregory, the entertainer who has become one of the most flamboyant figures in the racial conflict, supported Percy against Kerner. How King, Gregory and the other leaders will go this time is anyone's guess. They are actually aware of the deep underlying unrest and impatience within the Negro community.

The last thing Douglas will do as a man of principle, a term rarely applied to politicians, is repudiate his past. So, going up and down through Illinois' 102 counties, he will fight it out on his record and with the stamina this has carried him through before.

SOUTH READY FOR ANYTHING
A letter from Madison, Wis., reads:
"I opened the king of hearts and continued with the queen after South allowed me to hold the first trick. South took that trick in dummy, and after stewing around awhile, led a club. My partner played the king to that suit at trick two. What's your opinion?"
South's play was excellent. He must have reasoned that East held 10 cards in diamonds and spades for his bids. It also turns out that West's trump leads were rather helpful in that when South finessed the ten of clubs he was not risking a two-trick set.

That does not mean any criticism at all of the initial trump lead. In fact we know of no expert who would not have opened the king of hearts. Hearts had been raised and West could not be expected to know that dummy would have no ruffing power at all. An expert probably should have shifted to the spade at trick two but we have a hunch that South would have been equal to the occasion and played the clubs exactly the same way.

Even an initial spade play might not have beaten the hand, south could cash dummy's ace of trumps and then play clubs to get the same spade discard.

Snow Survey Shows Below Average Year

HAILEY — Water content at all snow courses on the headwaters of the Big and Little Wood, the Salmon and the Lost rivers is below the 15-year average, according to Reuben Bradshaw, snow surveyor for the Blaine Soil Conservation Service after completing his March 1 survey.

At Gatena summit snow depth was 53.5 inches with 13.9 inches of water against 94 inches of snow with 35.6 inches of water the same date last year. The 15-year average water content is 19.7 inches.

At Horse Creek course near the foot of the summit there are 42.9 inches of snow with 12.8 inches of water against 80 inches of snow with 31.8 inches of water content last year, and a 15-year average of 16.9 inches. At the Graham Ranch course near the North Fork of the Wood River there are now 36.6 inches of snow with 10.2 inches of water content compared to 58 inches with 21.4 inches of water content last year and a 15-year average of 11.9 inches.

On top of Bald Mountain at Sun Valley there are 50.1 inches of snow with 13.6 inches of water, compared to 82 inches of snow with 32.5 inches of water content and a 15-year average of 17.8 of water content.

At Mascot Mine on the headwaters of the East Fork of the Wood River there are now 31.8 inches of snow with 9 inches of water, compared to 61 inches of snow with 22.8 inches of snow last year and a 15-year average of 12.6 inches.

At Swedes Peak at the head of the Copper Basin and Muldoon country there are 43.7 inches of snow with 12.5 inches of water content.

The same date in 1965 there were 71 inches of snow with 26.4 inches of water content and the 15-year average here is 14.8 inches of water content.

At Garfield Ranger Station near the head of Muldoon Creek and a tributary of Little Wood River there are 29.6 inches of snow with 7.7 inches of water content compared to 47 inches of snow with 16.8 inches of water content last year this date. The 15-year water content here is 10.3 inches.

At the Muldoon snow course there are 28.2 inches of snow with 7.2 inches of water content compared to 37 inches of snow with 12.2 inches of water content last year and a 15-year water content average of 8 inches.

At the Iron Mine course on Little Wood River there are 26.4 inches of snow with 6.4 inches of water content against 46 inches of snow with 16.4 inches of water content last year the same date.

At the Teller Ranch course on Fish Creek there are 23.8 inches of snow with 6.1 inches of water content compared to 38 inches of snow with 12.6 inches of water content last year and a 15-year average water content over a 15 year average.

Assisting Bradshaw on his surveys were John Combs of the Ketchum Forest Service Ranger Station and Richard Anderson and James Cook of the Hailey Ranger Station.

BURLEY — Capt. Floyd Stewart of the Burley police department and Mrs. Stewart have expressed appreciation to persons donating blood assisting while Capt. Stewart went to Salt Lake City for heart surgery last month.

The officer is reported recovering satisfactorily at his home here after receiving 24 pints of blood during his stay in the LDS Hospital, Salt Lake City.

The Stewarts expressed appreciation to Ruth Snapp, Rupert, and Mrs. Adelle Hylton, Burley, Red Cross chairmen, for their efforts in obtaining blood donors. Appreciation also was expressed to the police departments in Burley and Rupert as well as their many well wishers during Stewart's illness.

Your Spine and Your Health

By Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr
Are you satisfied with your posture? Maybe your shoulders are a little too rounded, one shoulder high, the other low. It may be that one leg is shorter than the other, resulting from a tilted pelvis, too much curve in the lower spine, etc.

The spine is the backbone of posture and the position of the spine is controlled by muscles. Proper muscle tension is necessary to have good posture. This interference is caused by partial dislocation or a segment of the spine. When this condition is corrected, the body resumes its natural position.

Children as well as grown-ups should be examined regularly for postural defects. The same examination is checked for defects of eye disorders. Normal health is a normal condition, permitted only by a normal spine.

Mrs. Wallace Sets Political Campaign

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Mrs. Wallace, wife of the first woman governor of Alabama, launched her political campaign here Friday night.

But husband Gov. George C. Wallace did most of the talking. Mrs. Wallace, a mother of four, spoke about two minutes in a rally at a National Guard armory, then sat down and listened as her husband, in a 35-minute oration, cited the accomplishments of his administration and outlined what he would do if his wife is elected to the state's highest post.

"The governor said that he would be his wife's 'No. 1 adviser,' and indicated her election could be considered a mandate for him to continue what he called his struggle for a return to local government."

"There is nothing wrong with a woman running for governor of this state. It is up to the people of Alabama. We are not afraid to put it before them. We stand on my record," Wallace said.

An estimated 1,200 persons crowded into the armory in this city — Alabama's most populous — to hear the Wallaces. Mrs. Wallace is one of 11 candidates — and the only woman — running in the May 3 Democratic primary for the party's gubernatorial nomination.

Wallace can't succeed himself. He tried, but a group of political opponents filibustered a succession amendment to death in the Alabama Legislature. The governor had some sharp words for such opponents Friday night.

The governor, who in his inauguration speech in 1962 pledged segregation forever, said that if his wife is named governor he will continue his campaign for constitutional government.

Florida Trial Jury Said Deadlocked

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Mosser murder trial jury reported Saturday it was hopelessly deadlocked.

The 12-man jury reported to Circuit Court Judge George Schulz that it could not agree on a verdict for either Candace Mosser or her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers.

The report said the breach of opinion was so wide that members of the jury felt they could never come to agreement.

Mrs. Mosser was accused of masterminding and Powers of carrying out the slaying of her multimillionaire husband, Jacques Mosser, 69.

The judge read the report to newsmen in his chambers and said he had instructed the jury to continue deliberating sufficient time "to reach a verdict or verdicts if you can."

During the sensational 34-day trial of Mrs. Mosser and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, she had collapsed twice, staggering out of the courtroom with attacks of headache and nausea.

The state charged that Mrs. Mosser conceived and Powers carried out "brutal, unwarranted murder" of her husband, head of a $33-million bank and loan company empire. The motives, the prosecution said, were "greed, avarice, lust and money."

Defense lawyers claimed that the state had proved only a torrid love affair between the codefendants.

The jury retired Thursday night, came back into court Friday for lengthy rereading of the testimony of several witnesses, and resumed deliberations Saturday morning.

Wiseman Talks To Credit Club

BURLEY — Howard Wiseman was guest speaker Thursday morning during the breakfast meeting of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club at the National Hotel.

Members and guests were welcomed by Mrs. Clair Wyatt, president. Invocation was given by Mrs. Max Hogg, club chaplain.

"Collecting by telephone" was the topic which Wiseman, with the American Finance Co., discussed. The do's and don'ts for collecting accounts by telephone were pointed out by Wiseman. After his talk a question period was held.

It was announced that an executive meeting will be held at 7:45 a.m. Wednesday in the dining room at Wymore's Dairy.

SOAP COLLECTED

AMERICAN FALLS (AP) — Operation Soap-A-Go-Go netted 1,002 bars of soap destined for South Viet Nam in a drive here last week. The project was started by Mrs. Mildred West, a junior high school history teacher who is chairman of the foreign relations committee of the local American Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. West asked her students to bring a bar of soap after hearing it was in short supply in Viet Nam, but most brought several bars and one enthusiastic student carried in 74 bars of the spunky stuff.

HEADS REQUESTS

BOISE (AP) — A $3.5 million life sciences building for Idaho State University will head school construction requests to the 1967 legislature. And the University of Idaho is getting more applications for next year's freshman class than it expected.

The State Board of Education gave top priority to the ISU building request Friday after designating the Pocatello institution as a center for pre-medical, para-medical and life sciences education.

But ISU President William Davis said the designation did not necessarily mean ISU would be the site of a medical school.

PRESIDENT EXPECTED

POCATELLO (AP) — Kewanee International President Edward C. Keefe of Oklahoma will speak to a combined meeting of the Pocatello and Alameda Kewanee Clubs Wednesday in Hotel Bannock. Keefe will arrive in Pocatello at 11 a.m. Wednesday. The Idaho State University ROTC band and honor guard will welcome Keefe, his wife and daughter at the Bannock Hotel, and Mayor Earl Pond will present the Kewanee first family with the key to the city.

NEED DESCRIBED

BOISE (AP) — Coordination of all institutions of higher learning, particularly in the area of accreditation, was described Saturday as a need in Idaho.

The view was expressed at a meeting of the State Board of Education, to which all colleges and universities — public and private — were invited to send representatives.

John Peacock of Kollong, a member of the board, said the board was having difficulty in finding an executive secretary to handle affairs of higher education, as provided for in a bill passed by the 1965 Legislature.

CORPSMEN WORK

MOUNTAIN HOME (AP) — Job Corps enrollees are fabricating shelters, tables and benches for installation this spring at the new Cove Recreation Area on C. J. Strike Dam Reservoir.

Frank G. Pitts, deputy director for work projects at the Mountain Home Job Corps Center, said on-site construction on the south shore of the reservoir will begin in late March or early April for completion in July.

Plans call for 28 family units with plastic roofs, tables and benches, fireplaces, sanitary facilities and parking spaces for 42 cars, Pitts said.

The dam and recreation area site is between Bruneau and Grand View, southwest of Mountain Home.

WILL SELECT MANAGER

POCATELLO (AP) — The Eastern Idaho State Fair Board will select a secretary-manager Monday, Bannock County Commission member Elmer Terry said Friday.

Terry said there are more than 30 applicants for the $6,500 post.

PROTESTS HEARD

BOISE (AP) — Protests on land usage and timber pricing have been taken under advisement by the Idaho Land Board. The board, meeting here Friday, said a decision would be reached later.

Protests were heard from loggers operating in the Clearwater area. They said the present timber pricing procedure should be changed because of Pottlatch Forest's new mill at Jaype.

In other matters, the board approved a proposed 1966 timber harvesting program submitted by State Forester Roger Guernsey, it calls for cutting of 163 million board feet on state lands.

LOW-BIDDER

BOISE (AP) — A Boise firm, Van Waters and Rogers, Inc., was apparent low bidder Friday to supply Lewis-Clark Normal School with 10 microscopes.

The firm submitted a bid of $917 for each microscope. The state purchasing agent's office, where the bids were opened, said two bids were opened.

Mrs. Bethine Church is scheduled to speak Saturday at Nyack, N.Y., to delegates at the Rockland (N.Y.) county conference on natural beautification. She is a member of the first lady's special speakers bureau on Beautification.

Old Age Used to Represent Small County Feelings on Reapportionment

By EARLE L. JESTER

BOISE (AP) — What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

Sentiment representing the philosophy of that old adage was apparent in many of the votes cast in the reapportionment struggle in the Idaho Legislature's special session.

It was a case of the small counties saying to the big counties:

You told us you were discriminated against because we had one senator for our few people while you also had only one for your many people.

Now your residents would be getting more than their fair share of representation if they could vote for five senators. Ada County's proposed share, whereas our people can vote for only one.

So the small counties decided they'd stick together and resist any reapportionment plan which failed to require the multi-legislature counties to be districted.

with one senator coming from each district.

In the first vote on the 35-senator plan of reapportioning the Senate, the measure was approved 23-20. And of the 23 affirmative votes only six came from counties which would have at least one senator of their own.

The other 17 counties have populations of less than the average of 19,000 required to get one senator under a plan which distributes 35 senators among the state's 667,171 population shown in the 1960 census.

Some of the Democratic senators from small counties made no bones about their intentions. They said flatly they were supporting the measure in an effort to break the Republican monopoly in some counties, particularly Ada.

In the present legislature, Ada County, in addition to its one senator, a Republican, has nine Republican representatives. There are no Democrats in the delegation.

Democrats contend that if Ada County were divided into subdistricts, with each choosing one senator, their party would have a good chance of picking up one or two of them.

It was no secret that Republican leaders in Ada County were fearful of that very thing, and for that reason the county's delegation opposed subdistricting.

There was talk about the special session requiring statesmanship and a nonpartisan spirit if it was to succeed in reapportioning in a manner suitable to the court.

There was some statesmanship, and there was some nonpartisan spirit.

But as might be expected in a legislative body chosen through the political process, there also was considerable partisanship.

And it was only natural that individual lawmakers consider each reapportionment plan on the basis of what it would do for his county, his party, and for himself.

Reapportionment, of course, rested most heavily on the Senate. The House membership was more nearly based on population anyway and the first surgery was accomplished by the 1965 special session.

Thus many House members reporting for the second session knew already they had been legislated out of office and would not be back after the 1966 election.

In the Senate it was different. Although many from the small counties knew at least some of them would have to give up their seats in the process of forming multi-county districts, they wanted to put off the final pruning as long as possible.

Some certainly had the forlorn hope that a way could be found for all to keep their seats.

In floor debate, a number of senators said they questioned the wisdom of the U.S. Supreme Court in establishing the one man, one vote principle. They referred to the establishing of the United States, with its plan of having one House of Congress based on population and the other on geographical area.

They said the Idaho Constitution also adopted that principle. Actually, that is not true, despite general belief. At the time it was approved in 1890, the Idaho Constitution called for election of senators from districts. The one-senator-per-county plan was not put into effect until 1911.

It resulted in a rapid increase in the number of counties in the decade that followed.

During the debate on reapportionment it was suggested that a return to the district plan of electing senators could result, also, in consolidation of counties. Some lawmakers have expressed the hope that it will.

Rapid Rise in Standard of Living Predicted by 1975

NEW YORK (Special) — The United States probably will have Gross National Product of $1 trillion by 1975, the National Industrial Conference Board has predicted.

Barring some catastrophe, the long range forecast said the standard of living will escalate rapidly in the coming decade providing a high investment, high-savings economy, relatively free of inflation or of serious unemployment.

There may be short-term setbacks, Albert T. Sommers, the NICB director of economic research, said, but the general outlook is good.

Civilian employment is expected to hit 66 million 10 years from now, up from 70 million last year, and there will be 50 per cent more white collar jobs than blue collar jobs then.

The total labor force will be 93 million by 1975. The forecast said that teen-age joblessness, the bugbear of today's society probably will be greatly reduced.

Other predictions in the conference board study: —The average work week in 1975 will be 36.7 hours. —Farms will employ only four per cent of all workers. —Over all productivity will rise by 2.85 per cent annually in the next decade.

Industry's capital spending will reach an annual rate of $118 billion.

Prices will continue to creep upward but without causing real inflationary pressure.

Nearly half of all families will have annual income of $10,000 or more in today's dollars as against only 20 per cent now.

Only 21 per cent of all American families will have incomes under $5,000 a year as compared with 36 per cent now.

Government non-defense spending will double, assuming there is no great reason to cut defense outlays, they will rise by about 40 per cent.

Income tax rates for both corporations and individuals will be somewhat lower in 1975 than they are now.

Defended

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A uniformed American Nazi party member parading a "Hitler was right" sign was kicked in the seat of the pants Friday by a blonde University of California coed. The coed was arrested.

Lynda L. Koolish, 19, Beverly Hills, Calif., was charged with battery by Berkeley police. She posted $110 bail and was told to appear in court next week. The demonstrator was not identified.

Police said they made the arrest because, "After all, free speech is for everybody. And we figure we have to defend everybody."

RUMORS REPORTED

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel said today recurrent rumors that the Turkish army is ready to topple his two-month-old government are deeply disquieting to the nation.

Music Week! Essay Contest Data Given

Information on the National Music Week Essay Contest, conducted by the National Federation of Music Clubs, was announced Saturday by Mrs. John Birrell, president of the Twin Falls Music Club.

The contest is for students in the 8th through the 12th grades and essays are to be 500 words or less on the subject, "The Importance of Music to Me."

Entries must be submitted on an entry form, available from either Mrs. Birrell or Mrs. Henry Coier, chairman of Music Week observance in Twin Falls.

The entries must be mailed by March 16 to the National Federation of Music Clubs headquarters, Suite 1215, 600 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60605. There will be 14 cash awards of $25 given, one for each district.

The essays must be original and students may submit more than one entry. Winners will be announced during Music Week, May 1-8.

Essays will be judged on neatness and legibility as well as content, Mrs. Birrell said.

MAIL INCREASES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The volume of mail in the nation has increased by more than 30 per cent in the last 10 years, states the Post Office Department.

Editors Get More Anti-Sales Tax Letters

By VAN WOLVERTON
Idaho State Journal

A check of the letters-to-the-editor columns of Idaho newspapers shows a growing tide of anti-sales tax letters, the first rumblings of what shapes up to be a major political battle before the election this fall.

The 3-per cent levy, enacted by the 1960 session of the legislature, will be decided by the voters at a referendum on the general election ballot.

At least one announced candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, State Sen. William J. Dee, of Grangeville, is basing his campaign on repeal of the tax and a propo-lunate cutback in state expenditures. Anti-sales tax groups have been formed in a number of Idaho communities and will no doubt flood the mails with letters and press releases before the election.

Many civic and service organizations have endorsed the levy as the broad-based tax needed to finance the increasing demands on state government. But opponents of the tax claim the "man-on-the-street" is not reached by these endorsements and will vote out the levy.

The Idaho Education Association has been the most vocal, so far, of organized support for the tax and has pledged to contribute money, time and effort toward a campaign aimed at retention of the tax.

An independent statewide campaign, complete with newspaper, radio, television billboard and direct mail advertising (and a $100,000 budget) is gearing to push passage.

Idaho and New York both instituted sales taxes in 1965, and legislative action creating a similar levy in Massachusetts and Virginia this year brings to the number of states using sales taxes to finance governmental operations.

Of those states with a sales tax, 21 levy at 3 per cent. Eight others have a 2 per cent tax, 3.5 per cent, two levy 2.5 per cent, and one each levy 4.2 and 5 per cent. Total receipts were estimated at $7 billion in 39 states last year, about 25 per cent of all state tax revenues in the country.

In addition to the institution of sales taxes in Idaho and New York last year, ten other states raised their levies. A raise from 2 to 3 per cent was approved by the Oklahoma Legislature but rejected by the voters in a referendum. A temporary hike to 3 per cent in West Virginia became permanent through legislative action last year, also.

"YOU'VE GOT TROUBLE," one of the songs from the Dilettante Group of Magic Valley production, "The Music Man," illustrates some of the main problems in River City, Iowa. James LaGrone, who plays the title role of Harold Hill, the "Music Man," practices on one of the "sins," namely pool, he warns of in the song. Like any good con man, Hill attempts to persuade the populace of River City that all these "evils" must go down the drain in favor of a boys' band. Naturally, Hill is a salesman for band uniforms and musical instruments. (Times-News photo)

Star of "Music Man" Bit by Stage Bug When Youngster

The title role in "The Music Man" is captured to the fullest extent by James LaGrone, Castleford, who has appeared in every Dilettante Group of Magic Valley production except "Carousel."

LaGrone's urge to dance, sing and sing was perhaps nurtured when, as a high school youth in Detroit, Mich., he had a friend whose father managed the Masonic Auditorium there. It seems whenever a show played at the auditorium and extras were needed, the manager's son would round up all his friends for the task. LaGrone recalls they were paid the fabulous sum of $1 each performance.

Outlook Good For Central Americans

MEXICO CITY, Mexico (AP)—In 1965 Mexico and its Central American neighbors had a comparatively good year economically and, barring unexpected reversals, look forward to a sound 1966.

Mexico in particular is a leader in the area and throughout Latin America. It is looked upon as a shining example of what can be done both as a nation and under the Alliance for Progress.

The Central American nations of Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and even Panama are developing, although progress is dependent to a great extent on Panama, out side the Central American Common Market, gets much credit.

Guatemala, El Salvador and Honduras have military heads of governments as a result of coups. Nicaragua still has the Somoza family keeping a tight hand on political economic and military matters.

In Panama, out side the Central American Common Market, a weak coalition government is in control amid extreme nationalist agitation over U.S. control of the Panama Canal.

Mexico has a strong government under new President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, who took office in December, 1964.

Imports during the first seven months of 1965 jumped to $890 million from $850 million in 1964. Exports for the same period increased slightly from $608 million to $610 million.

Tourism, however, brings in about $320 million a year.

The Gross National Product—sum of all goods and services—grew between six and seven per cent, just about what the government's leaders were shooting for. This—compared with 6.8 in 1962, 6.3 in 1963 and 10 per cent in 1964.

This small step into the world of the theater was terminated by a stint in the United States Marine Corps during the Korean War and again by taking time out for a business education at the University of Idaho.

While at the U of I he met his wife, Ha, who, along with their daughter, Rene, also is appearing in "The Music Man." They also have a son, Rex, 240 acres and manages a dairy herd, said that before coming to Idaho he had "never seen a farm."

When the Dilettante Group was formed here some years ago, his theatrical instincts got the best of him and he has been an active member of the group for six years. He came up through the ranks of officers of the organization and has been president of the group.

Although the role of Harold Hill, the "Music Man," is the first starring role for LaGrone, he has had dancing leads in two productions and will be remembered in the part of "Adam" in the Adam and Eve ballet in "Can-Can" and as "Curley" in the dream sequence in "Oklahoma."

The role of Harold Hill is one which truly calls for a "Many-talented person—for he had to act, dance and sing—and LaGrone handles all three jobs with ease.

Harold Hill is a charming con man salesman who steps into the lives of everyone in River City, Iowa. He is an expert at the art of winning people over for his own purposes and, oddly enough, the citizenry of River City enjoy this hoodwinking greatly.

The "Music Man," who comes to River City to try to sell the townspeople on the idea of forming a boys' band, also hopes to sell his products—namely uniforms, instruments and so forth.

Needless to say, as in any musical comedy, there is a romantic element involved, and while Harold Hill is attempting to sell his products, he is in turn sold on the local librarian, "Marian," played by Mrs. David (Marty) Mead.

Dates for the show, to be staged at the Filer High School Auditorium, are March 10, 11, 12 and 13, and March 16, 17 and 18. The March 13 performance is a matinee beginning at 2:15 p.m. and the curtain on all other shows rises at 8:15 p.m.

Dress rehearsals began Saturday, so cast, crew and audiences can be confident of seeing an expert production when the curtain rises on opening night.

Opening night, Thursday, has more tickets available than other dates, but good seating is still available for all performances.

Tickets may be obtained at the Boy Scout Auditorium in Twin Falls, or by calling the special "Music Man" number, 733-0673. Out-of-towners may purchase tickets at Blick and Reese, Castleford; Sav-Mor Drug, Buhl; Modern Drug, Filer; Sullivan's Music, Jerome; Kimberly Drug, Kimberly, and Mullikin Music, Burley.

Missouri Man Will Preach In Jerome

JEROME — Rev. Don Brown, Springfield, Mo., will be the featured speaker at the Jerome Bible Baptist church from Sunday through March 13. Services have been set for 9:45 a.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. each day.

The King's Harvesters, gospel singers and musicians, will be appearing with Rev. Brown. The group was first organized in 1958 but did not become active in gospel singing until 1961. They began to present the Gospel of Christ to service clubs and other groups in addition to singing and playing for evangelistic meetings in southern Idaho. They have also toured the Northwest and the Pacific coast.

Presenting the "Claims of our Lord" in song and testimony is how the King's Harvesters explain their untiring dedication to the cause of gospel music and the Kingdom of God.

The members now include Dick Shaffer, manager, who sings lead and plays the steel guitar, while his wife, Carole, plays the rhythm guitar.

Leona Hills plays the bass violin and Wayne Duncan sings bass and plays the guitar.

Murtaugh Forms Teen-Age Club

MURTAUGH—The Newly organized HOPS, teen TOPS Club, has elected officers; it was reported Saturday.

Rita Watts, leader; Kim Perkins, co-leader; Wilma Silvers, secretary; Terry Christensen, treasurer. Chairmen assigned by the leader are Karen Rumpf, photographs and scrapbook; Marilyn Peterson, weight recorder; and Linda Morrison, reporter.

A total of 18 pounds was reported lost for the week with Dianna Russell named the best loser.

The organization has 12 members and meets every Thursday afternoon after school at the Methodist Church. Anyone interested in joining the club is welcome.

Studebaker Firm Ends Long Career

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Studebaker Corp. wrote a reluctant finish Friday to its 64-year career in the auto-making business.

President Byers A. Burlingame said, "While I sincerely regret the necessity of discontinuing Studebaker cars, the irreversible losses being incurred permit no other course."

His announcement confirmed what everyone in the auto business had thought for some time — that Studebaker was fighting a losing battle in its effort to stay in the auto business.

Later, which had hit a high of 268,229 in 1950, had gone steadily downhill. Less than 19,000 Studebakers were sold last year.

The company made several drastic moves in recent years in efforts to keep the automotive division alive. All failed.

One was the move in December, 1963, of Studebaker's car-building operations from South Bend, Ind., to Hamilton, Ont. The theory was that the Hamilton subsidiary plant was more modern and economical than the old plant at South Bend and that Canadian wages were somewhat lower than those in the United States.

In another move, Studebaker continually reduced its car offerings and in the 1966 line offered only 10 models at prices ranging from $2,200 to $3,000.

The company shunned the glamour-car market and concentrated instead on a campaign to produce conservative, economical transportation. But it misfired in the market place.

Oddly enough, the closing of Studebaker's auto facilities came at a time when virtually all other operations of Studebaker were booming.

The company had diversified in recent years, and its output now includes home appliances, electrical generators, commercial refrigeration, oil and fuel additives, lawn and garden tractors, and tire studs, and reinforced plastics for aerospace and military use.

Studebaker, founded in 1852, won its first national recognition as a maker of wagon wheels, particularly the caissons used by the Union Army in the Civil War. It built military vehicles in both World Wars.

Recreation Is Big Business In Past Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States, a nation in constant search of ready-made diversion, made recreation a booming business in 1965.

There was the New York World's Fair. When it closed its two-year run in October it had attracted 51,607,448 fun-seekers, a record for international fairs.

There was Disneyland in California. It celebrated its 10th birthday anniversary by promising East Coast residents a Disneyland of their own in Florida.

There was professional football. The American Football League reported attendance was up 20 per cent to 1,845,000, a record for 1966, with a new team in Miami, it may run 2.5 million.

The National Football League attendance was up five per cent to 4.6 million. It, too, looks for better things, with a new stadium in St. Louis, Mo., in 1966 and Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1967.

Major league baseball attendance was up 5.4 per cent to 22,441,824. National Hockey League fans pushed attendance up from 2,732,642 in the 1963-64 season to 2,882,956 in 1964-65, and it ran ahead of that in the fall of 1965.

Attendance was down, but betting up, at the horse race tracks, which still attracted more paying customers than all of the other professional sports combined, 60,696,005.

Shakespearean festivals and repertory theater groups flourished from Connecticut to Oregon. The Seattle Repertory Theater broke into the black. Across the land, theatergoers paid more than $2 billion in admission fees.

Motion pictures attracted an average of 45 million persons a week, up from 43.7 million in 1964.

Employment in recreation fields, from baseball to yacht clubs, from botanical gardens to zoos, has increased markedly since 1959, the Bureau of Labor Standards reported. In 1964, Americans spent $23.8 billion on recreation and entertainment, five times what they did in 1940.

Earns Award

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO — Floyd Morrison Murtaugh, has earned an award for 25 years of volunteer service as a 4-H club leader, University of Idaho agricultural extension service officials report.

James Ferlic, Burley, is one of seven leaders to receive awards for 20 years of service.

CRIME DECREASES — MOSCOW (AP) — Crime decreased in the Soviet Union last year, the Supreme Court announced. It said the number of persons convicted of all criminal charges was 7.6 per cent less than in 1964, but did not give a total or any other figures.

Employees of Trucking Firm Have Top Donation to U. F.

Mike Mazzone, United Fund executive director, said Friday that donations by employees at Pacific Intermountain Express Freightways averaged $19.38 per person in the 1965 United Fund Campaign.

Mazzone said this was very high in comparison with the average donation of about $6.50. He said 15 PIE employee volunteers assisted him in the freightways donation project, and that the Twin Falls terminal is the highest PIE contributor in the nation.

Mazzone said, "The community should take its hat off to fellows like Howard Kelso (Twin Falls PIE branch manager) and his employees for contributing so much to the success of the drive."

Next year's United Fund drive is now in the process of being organized, and Mazzone said interested persons should contact him at the Twin Falls Boy Scout Building.

The 1966 slogan is "Be a Good Neighbor." He said about $63,000 was collected in the 1965 drive.

Survivors of Tornado Start Mop-up Work

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — "It'll take us a while to rebuild and the memories will always remain, but we'll bounce back," says Homer Howell, a survivor of the tornado which spewed death and destruction in Mississippi.

Howell's words were echoed by others today as the massive mop-up along with damage assessments, continued from the killer tornado which struck Jackson and rural counties to the east at dusk two days ago.

There were 61 known dead in Mississippi and 497 injured — 19 critically.

One man was killed and 11 others injured from the storm's final gale near Tuscaloosa, Ala.

All sections of the two states that experienced tornado damage were designated as disaster areas Friday by the Small Business Administration, making possible loans for rebuilding at low interest rates.

"There are just not enough words to describe the horror and devastation the tornado caused," said acting Gov. Carroll Gartin, who estimated damage in Mississippi would exceed $12 million.

"It was one of the most horrible scenes I've ever seen," said Gartin, the state's lieutenant governor who acted for Gov. Paul B. Johnson — in Florida on an industry-hunting junket.

Gartin said Game and Fish Commission agents had been ordered to make a house-to-house tour in rural sections to check on people and conditions.

Some officials believed more victims might still be found.

Outside the Jackson metropolitan area, the hardest hit section appeared to be around Leesburg in rural Scott County. Several hundred dairy cows killed in the area were hauled away by trucks.

In the Greater Jackson area, a suburban shopping center was smashed, leaving 12 dead. Industrial plants along the Pearl River were heavily damaged.

"But we'll return to normal," said Howell, a resident of Leake County to the east of the capital city.

WILFORD H. GINES will be honored at a farewell testimonial at 10:30 a.m. March 13 at the Hollister LDS branch chapel. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Gines, Hollister. He will be on a two-year mission at the Southwest British Mission, Bristol, England.

Ted Ahlm Is President of Rotary Club

BUHL — Ted Ahlm was elected to succeed Robert Peterson as president of the Buhl Rotary Club for 1966-67 during a re-organizational meeting of the board of directors Thursday in the R and R Cafe banquet room.

Other new officers are William Watt, vice president; George Likness, secretary-treasurer; Dave Murre, sergeant-at-arms, and Gary Post, assistant sergeant-at-arms. New officers will officially assume their duties on July 1.

New and holdover directors include Peterson, Ahlm, Watt, Benny Benson, Dale Christensen, William Nungester and Warren Saunders.

The program at the noon luncheon featured vocal selections by "The Grannies" of Castleford composed of Linda Peters, Penny Ward, Janice Parish and Beth Parks, James Hart was acting program chairman.

Ladies' night was announced for April 7. Other guests present were Alfred Iverson, and Buhl High School seniors, Wayne Looft, Gary Logan and Tom Lyons.

New Adult Books Added To Library

The Twin Falls Public Library has several new adult books ready for circulation.

They are "Watch on the Wall," Hattie Burnett, an electrifying novel about the Berlin of today, and "No God in Saguaro," Lewis B. Patten, a western novel.

The new non-fiction books are "Mammals of the Pacific States," Lloyd G. Ingles, a complete account of the mammals of California, Oregon and Washington; "Darien's World," Peter Darien, a collection of Darien's poetry; "Let's Get Well," Adelle Davis, a practical guide to renewed health through nutrition; "The Making of American Theatre," Howard Taubman, the tracing of the rise of a native American theatre in the context of a youthful and vigorous country on the move.

"China and the Peace of Asia," Alastair Buchan, a study in international security; "Theodore Dreiser, a New Dimension," Marguerite Tjader, deals with the life and philosophy of Theodore Dreiser, and "The Identity of Man," J. Bronowski, an examination of the numerous complementary processes of science and art through a coherent, humanistic philosophy.

"Mother to Be," Carlo Valentini, tells the young mother many things she will want to know; "American Playwrights on Drama," Horst Frenz, an unusual collection of nondramatic writings in which fourteen of America's major playwrights give their personal views on drama and the theater; "The Autobiography of Malcolm X," William S. Sahakian.

A new reference book has been added to the library, "What's in a Word," Webb Garrison, a book of delightful anecdotes about more than 500 everyday words and phrases.

Death Takes Mrs. Simpson

HEYBURN — Mrs. Martha Heiner Simpson, 68, died Friday afternoon at the Cassia Memorial Hospital of a long illness.

She was born Oct. 18, 1897, at Morgan, Utah, and came to Idaho where her father homesteaded in 1907. On March 15, 1915, she was married to William Ernest Simpson at Riverdale, Utah. Their marriage was solemnized Sept. 8, 1920, in the Logan LDS Temple.

Mrs. Simpson was an active member of the LDS Church, serving as a Relief Society counselor and visiting teacher for many years. She was a Primary and Sunday school secretary for nine years.

Survivors include her husband, Heyburn; three sons, Brent H. Simpson, Declo; Clyde J. Simpson, Globe, Ariz.; and W. Gale (Duke) Simpson, Heyburn; two daughters, Mrs. Arthur (Phyllis) Johnson, Burley, and Mrs. Walter (Rose) Hafer, Twin Falls; four brothers, Ray Heiner, Las Vegas, Nev.; Elmer Heiner, Heyburn; Vern Heiner, Oakley, and Carl Heiner, Burley; three sisters, Mrs. Clyde (Audrey) Hutchinson and Mrs. Henry (Belva) Tracy, both Burley, and Mrs. Orville (Adell) Gray, Twin Falls; 28 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Paul LDS Church by Bishop Jay Maxwell. Final rites will be held in the Riverside Cemetery, Heyburn. Friends may call at the Payne Mortuary, Burley, Tuesday afternoon and evening and Wednesday until time of services.

BUREAU TO MEET
CLOVER — Resolutions will be considered at a meeting of the Clover Community Farm Bureau at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Clover School. An interesting program is planned, reports Waldo Martens, president.

JUMPING FOR BASKETBALL are members of Florence's Toronados, light shirts, and Long's Wildcats, both sixth grade teams, during the first round of the Knothole Basketball Tournament. The first round was held Saturday at O'Leary Junior High School Gymnasium. The Toronados won the game 17-14, and will play in the second round Thursday evening. (Times-News photo)

First Round of Knothole Basketball Tournament Held

The first round of the Knothole Basketball tournament was played Saturday morning at O'Leary Junior High School Gymnasium.

Chad Browning, recreation director, said two games were played in the sixth and fifth grade leagues and one game in the fourth grade league. Co-sponsoring the Knothole Basketball tournament are the Jaycees and the Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Department.

In the fourth grade league Undheim's Vikings beat Schellin's Sharpshooters 26-4. On the winning team, Gary Duncan was high point man with 10 points. Mark Gerber and Jerry Mauss scored six points each for the winners. On the losing team, Bill Sutcliffe scored all

Jaycees Hold Speech Class

Humorist's Talk Tuesday To Close Knife-Fork Year

BURLEY — Charles Forbes Taylor, author, lecturer, humorist, traveler who, despite his "60" years of age, has been addressing audiences for over 60 years in the Christian Church at Rupert.

The last program of the season is also guest night, club officials announced.

One of the busiest men on the lecture platform who also doubled as a minister and revivalist along with his older brother, Taylor has spoken to audiences in many countries of Europe, in Australia, and has been in almost all the states of the United States including Hawaii. Few, if any people have addressed as many persons as has Taylor. Collectively his audience number over 20,000,000 persons which, if one figures it percentage-wise, is one-eighth of the world's population.

Born in England near the turn of the century, he made his first public appearance at the age of 4 singing in a theater to a thousand men, addressed by his preacher father.

He began traveling in his father's "gospel wagon" at the age of 5, helping in the sale of Bibles and other religious literature in the open air markets of England. He made his first public speech at the age of 9, in the Platt Hall, Luton, England, before an audience of 2,000 persons.

CHARLES F. TAYLOR

Taylor has attended a score of colleges and seminaries since he became an American citizen about 48 years ago. His educational breadth is indicated by the fact he holds degrees in the Bible and other religious literature and law. He has a Doctor of Laws degree from Baylor University and a Doctor of Divinity degree from Harding University.

NO MONEY DOWN . . . NOTHING 'TIL SUMMER!

Drivers Don't See Humor in Practical Joke

A practical joker in a truck caused Twin Falls motorists pangs of anxiety Thursday afternoon, according to Twin Falls police.

According to a police report, a passenger in a truck was driving around town pointing at the tires of passing vehicles. The motorists, thinking something was wrong, would stop to examine their tires only to find the "joke" was on them.

Several of them thought the joke was no joke and called the police to inform them of their displeasure.

Police went in search of the truck and found it parked at the post office. They told the "humorist" to stop playing jokes on motorists and called the manager of the trucking line.

The manager said he would chat with the man to make sure it did not happen again.

Help With Play

Kirkman Brothers, Twin Falls, Bus Co., Jerome, applied for transfer of a portion of the operating authority held in the Rogerson Hotel Desert under permit to the Northside Room.

Humphrey Directed to Find 1,750,000 Jobs for Youths

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — because sons of some political President Johnson directed Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey Saturday to "combat summer-time unrest among young people by helping them find 1,750,000 jobs."

This broad assignment was given to Humphrey in a presidential memorandum which said "unrest is typically greatest during the summer months."

The memo was made public at White House press headquarters in San Antonio.

Johnson, who flew to his ranch home near Johnson City Friday night for a weekend visit, told Humphrey he thinks that "with adequate prior planning, the federal government can make a significant contribution" toward avoiding summer woes.

Humphrey will head a high-level task force ordered to present recommendations by April 1 on ways to keep young people busy and out of trouble next summer.

The vice president headed a similar panel last year and was credited by the administration with helping to drum up 1,000,000 summer jobs. Of those 37,000 were provided directly by the government, many under a Post-Office Department program that became a center of controversy.

figures were on the department's summer payroll. As in 1965, Johnson wants to keep young people busy during school holidays with the hope of avoiding summer riots at seaside resorts and uglier violence — of the kind that erupted last year in the Watts section of Los Angeles — in urban population centers.

The President spent most of the day at his ranch home, 65 miles north of here. He was on the telephone to officials in Washington and summoned to Texas an Army general recently returned from South Vietnam.

Johnson wanted to get a firsthand account of the Vietnamese situation from Brig. Gen. Ellis Williamson, former commander of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, one of the first large Army units dispatched to South Vietnam.

The President approved the appointment of Dr. Robert P. Grant, 50, as director of the National Heart Institute. The post became vacant when Johnson named Dr. William H. Stewart as surgeon general of the U.S. Public Health Service. Grant has been head of the U.S. office of the National Institutes of Health.

ISU, IDAHO COLLIDE IN T.F. GYM MONDAY

Public No-Host Luncheon To Honor Clubs; Rubber Match Begins at 8 p.m.

"Run and gun" basketball, featuring the second leading scorer in the nation and spiced by Idaho's largest and fiercest rivalry, will unfold at 8 p.m. Monday when the Idaho State Bengals play the University of Idaho Vandals in the Twin Falls gymnasium. Both clubs were expected to arrive in Twin Falls Sunday afternoon and probably take a brief, get-acquainted shooting session on the floor that evening. The teams and their coaches will be honored at a no-host luncheon Monday noon at the Elks Building and all interested persons are invited.

JUMPING JACK John Rucker, 6-3 guard-forward for the Idaho Vandals, is counted on for the rebounding chores Monday night when the Vandals take on the Idaho State Bengals in the Twin Falls gymnasium. A Rensselaer, N.Y., product, Rucker is winding up his second year of starting for Idaho since transferring from Columbia Basin Junior College.

Sanders Ousted for Not Signing Card

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Defending champion Doug Sanders was disqualified for failure to sign his score card Saturday after firing a 67 for a score of 130, which gave him an imposing four-stroke lead in the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament. Veteran PGA officials said, while there had been no disqualification before, it has never happened to a leading player. The action created a shock when the announcement was made moments after Sanders had finished his second spectacular, par-busting round in succession.

He had a nine-under-par 63 Thursday in the opening round. Friday's round was canceled. "It is the most ridiculous thing I have ever heard of," a bitter Sanders said when he was informed of the action. The disqualification left Gay Brewer of Dallas, Tex., in the lead after 36 holes of the tournament with a score of 65-69-134. Brewer scored a 69 Saturday, a three under par for the par 36-72 Pensacola Country Club course, despite a triple bogie 7 on the 13th hole.

Sanders signed the card of one of his playing partners, Johnny Potts, as he was required to do; but apparently in the enthusiasm for his good round, failed to sign his own. Sanders was in the press room giving details of his round when he was summoned to the PGA headquarters for consultation. It was then that he was told of his disqualification. The formal announcement was made moments later.

In second place behind Brewer was Tom Weiskopf of Columbus, Ohio, with 68-69-136, followed by Dick Hart of Hinsdale, Ill., and Neil Coles of England, tied at 137. "Six players were tied at 138, all with a chance at the $10,000 first prize which had virtually been conceded to Sanders, winner of this tournament in 1962 and 1965. They were PGA champion Dave Marr, a 70-68; Julius Boros, a two-time National Open winner, 68-70; Australia's Bruce Devlin, 68-72; Jacky Cupit 70-68; Ray Floyd, 70-68, and Mason Rudolph, 7-167.

Bold Bidder Is Bought, Retired

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—John R. Gaines said Saturday he has purchased Bold Bidder from Paul Ealkenstien of Bakersfield, Calif., and will immediately retire the thoroughbred to stud. The price was not disclosed. Bold Bidder won the recent $100,000-added Charles H. Strub Stakes at Santa Anita and established a track record for 1 1/4 miles, but he finished a disappointing eighth in the Santa Anita Handicap Feb. 26.

TAKES THIRD TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—Utah swimmers captured 10 of 17 events to win the Western Athletic Conference swimming championship which ended here Saturday.

The Monday battle will be the finale for both clubs and the rubber match. Idaho whipped the Bengals quite decisively on the Vandal home court and the Bengals replied in kind, only possibly more so, when it was their turn to play at home.

This will be the first time the rivalry has been shifted from the campuses of the two clubs, Twin Falls winning the nod over Boise last spring at the site.

Tickets sales brisk for the past week, stepped up perceptibly over the weekend with two Twin Falls outlets reporting over 1,500 sold. The gymnasium held 3,800 for the high school tournament Friday night, however, so game officials are certain there will be a place for everyone showing up.

Neither of the clubs has a good big man and for that reason both Indiana-trained Claude Rutherford, ISU coach, and Jim Goddard, Idaho mentor, have gone with fast break offenses.

Dave Wagnon, the ISU hotshot from Weiser by way of Boise Junior College, is battling to become the first Idahoan to ever pace the country in scoring. Wagnon, who has scored more than 30 points in his last 13 games, already holds every record on Idaho State's books including the one-game mark of 47 against Weber State last week.

He entered his final home games with a 31.7 average and didn't hurt it in his quest to overtake Purdue's Dave Schell-hase.

Idaho is paced in scoring by Jerry Skafle, who came to Vandalsville after starting at Spokane and Columbia Basin Junior College. Skafle is averaging about 17 points per game.

Alumni groups of the competing colleges will conduct get-togethers following the game Monday. Idaho fans are asked to meet in the Roundup Room of the Rogerson Hotel while Kay's Supper Club will entertain the ISU faithful.

Tickets will remain available at three Twin Falls outlets until late Monday afternoon. They may be purchased at Sherwood's Sports Center, Olson's Sporting Goods and the Sterling Jewelry. The box office will open about 6:30 p.m.

Kentucky Derby Has 150 on List

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The list of 150 nominations for the 1966 Kentucky Derby is the longest since 1961 when 155 were named and 15 started.

Six fillies are among the 3-year-old thoroughbreds eligible for the 92nd running of the 1 1/4 mile race May 7 at Churchill Downs.

Moccasin, champion 2-year-old filly of 1965 and Horse of the Year, is rated as a possibility to become the first filly to win since Regret in 1915.

UTES COP TITLE SPOKANE (AP)—The Eagles of St. John won third place in the Washington State Class B High School Basketball Tournament Saturday when they defeated Zillah 66-56 in a game at halftime.

DAVE WAGNON and BUDDY FRAZIER will lead the Idaho State Bengals against the Idaho Vandals at 8 p.m. Monday in the Twin Falls gymnasium. Wagnon, Weiser, is in contention for the national collegiate scoring honors while Frazier, despite his size, is a big man in rebounds and defense for Idaho State.

Top-Rated Kentucky Falls to Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—With Ron Widby hitting from the outside and Red Robbins inside, Tennessee beat top ranked Kentucky 69-62 Saturday in the biggest upset of the college basketball season. Kentucky had won 25 straight games — 23 this season — and already had clinched the Southeastern Conference championship and a berth in the NCAA regional tournament.

Tennessee, with a great team effort, led most of the way and won the game going away in the final five minutes.

Widby, hitting consistently with jump shots from the outside, scored 22 points and shared high scoring honors with Kentucky's Pay Riley, who scored 16 of his 22 in the second half and kept the Wildcats in the contest.

The lead changed hands eight times in the second half before Tennessee forged ahead to stay.

Robbins, 6-9 pivotman from Groveland, Fla., tossed in 18 points and with Howard Bayne helped control the backboards for Tennessee.

Robbins got 13 rebounds and Bayne, who missed the Tennessee-Kentucky game at Lexington last Saturday, grabbed 12. Kentucky whipped Tennessee last week, 78-64.

Out-of-Staters Lead in Slalom

BOGUS BASIN, Idaho (AP)—Washington and Oregon skiers won in slalom competition Saturday at the 16th Cranston Cup races.

Jerry Blann of the Bend Sky-liners turned in a two-run total time of 81 seconds to nip Dick Prugh of the Spokane Ski Racing Association by four-tenths of a second.

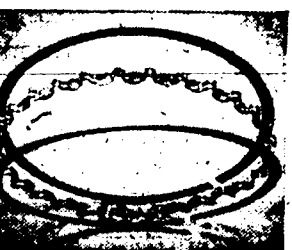

Judy Nagel of the Crystal Mountain Athletic club led the girls' expert race with a time of 79.1 seconds.

Second was Shari Milliken of the Washington Ski Club in 81.3 seconds.

In Class A men's competition, Dave Sather of the Spokane Ski Racing Association finished in 79.8 seconds. Second was Jon Allsop of the Steven's Pass Athletic Club in 80.7.

The races conclude Sunday with the giant slalom.

Providence, Miami Face Tough Foes in NCAA Tourney Openers

By The Associated Press

The NCAA's defending champion, Providence, is not back this year. UCLA, which would have been trying for a record third straight title, lost out in the Pacific Athletic Conference to Oregon State.

Providence-St. Joseph's, Pa., at Blacksburg, Va., while Miami takes on Dayton at Kent, Ohio.

WOLVES TIP MURTAUGH FOR A - 4 CROWN

Castleford Hits Late for 71-62 Win, State Berth

HANSEN — Carey Whitley hit 10 of Castleford's 20 points in the third quarter Saturday night as the Wolves took a four-point edge and went on to drop the Murtaugh Red Devils for the sixth district A-4 basketball trophy and a berth in the state A-4 tournament. Murtaugh won the first meeting between the two teams, dropping the Wolves into losers bracket play. However, that didn't bother the Wolves as they waded right through and finished by dropping the Devils twice in a row.

NCAA Indoor Track Meet Set Saturday

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's campus track stars will compete in the National Collegiate Indoor Track Championships next weekend in what is regarded as a preview of part of the 1968 U.S. Olympic track team.

The event will be held in Detroit's Cobo Arena Friday and Saturday. More than 18,000 tickets were sold last year for the two-day inaugural meet, sponsored by the Detroit News.

Southern California, the NCAA national outdoor champion, will be favored to add its first indoor crown to the 23 outdoor team titles the Trojans have won in the past 44 years. Jim Ryun, the university of Kansas freshman regarded as one of the greatest milers ever developed in the United States, heads a cast of at least four starters in the invitational mile. His competition will include Al Carlus, who won the event last year in 4:09. Rick Cunningham, a 4:04 miler from Miami, Ohio, and Oscar Moore, an Olympic distance runner from Southern Illinois.

Duke Dumps Wolfpack in ACC Finals

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Top-seeded Duke, behind most of the game, roared ahead in the closing minutes to whip defending champion North Carolina State 71-56 in the title game of the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament Saturday night.

The victory was a measure of revenge for the Blue Devils, who lost to the Wolfpack in the tournament finals last year. It appeared another defeat was in the making until Duke swept into the lead 64-63 on a goal by Steve Vacendak with 3:46 remaining. From there on in, the Blue Devils calmly beat off State's frantic full court press and added to their margin.

The victory sends Duke into the NCAA Eastern regional next Friday and Saturday in Raleigh.

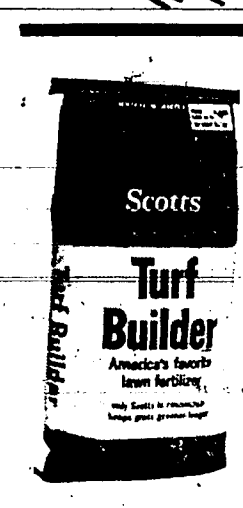

Vacendak, with 18 points, was Duke's big playmaker. The Blue Devils had trailed by nine points in the first half and were down six points with only about seven minutes to play.

Much of the Blue Devils' trouble resulted from State's brilliant outside shooting, particularly that of Tommy Matlocks and Eddie Biedenbach.

Biedenbach, peppery junior from Pittsburgh, put State into a six-point lead at the start with three long shots from outside the circle. He finished the night with 22 points, high for the Wolfpack.

Ivy League Will Not Enter Any NCAA Meets Due to Grades Row

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) Acting after Penn and Yale were declared ineligible for events sponsored by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the Ivy League said Saturday none of its eight teams will participate in NCAA events. "The eight members of the Ivy Group have determined that they must all accept ineligibility for such events," President Robert F. Goheen of Princeton said in a statement.

Boldnesian Wins Santa Anita Derby

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Kentucky-bred Boldnesian held off a second-effort drive by Sabre Mountain Saturday to win the 29th running of the $10,000 Santa Anita Derby.

Jockey Walter Blum in a skillful ride got Boldnesian under the wire two lengths in front of Sabre Mountain, with Exhibitionist third as an estimated 56,000 fans roared in excitement.

The victory was worth $96,900 to Boldnesian's owner, William Haggan Perry, while the El Peco Ranch's Sabre Mountain, unbeaten in five straight races before this one, had to settle for $20,000.

The time for the 1 1/4 mile Derby was 1:48 2/5, well back of last year by Lucky Debonair.

statement. Koheen is chairman of the Ivy Group Policy Committee. Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, was not available for comment on the Ivy action.

The NCAA ruled Friday night that Penn and Yale would be ineligible for NCAA events because they refused to comply with the organization's 1.6 academic standard ruling.

That NCAA decision dropped Penn from the basketball tournament opening Monday night and Yale's powerful swimming team headed by Olympic champion Dori Schollander from the swimming championships later this month.

The action comes after two months of controversy and discussion between the two bodies over the legislation that requires an athlete to maintain a 1.6 academic average.

The cardinal issues in the dispute, Goheen said, are included in these questions:

1. Do you believe that athletes should be treated differently than other students?

2. Do you believe that an athletic organization should seek to determine academic policy?

3. Do you believe that a student with a low-grade average should automatically be barred from participation in sports and from financial aid no matter what his stage of development and no matter what his academic potential?

"If your answers are yes to these three questions, you will support the NCAA's rule. If your answers are no, you will understand why it is impossible for the Ivy Group institutions to accept the 1.6 legislation."

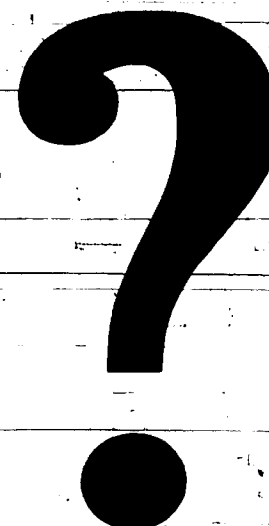

The Princeton official added that the ruling "works most severely against students in institutions which have much higher admission requirements than those specified in the NCAA's 1.6 legislation."

A spokesman for Goheen said rather than withdraw from the NCAA altogether, "we will remain in it to do our best in the year ahead to amend and abandon this piece of legislation."

He added that any official action on the rule would have to wait until the organization's convention next January.

Twin Falls' Bruins exploded a 14-point outburst against a suddenly ice cold Burley crew in the second quarter Saturday night, then outlasted the Bobcats 58-55 to win the third regional A-1 basketball championship for the third consecutive time. The Bruins now advance to the state tournament in the Capital High School gym in Boise next Tuesday, opening against Sandpoint, runner-up in the first regional. If successful, the Bruins would then go against the winner of the Borah-Idaho Falls game.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Major league baseball players ended a 2-year search for an executive director of their association Saturday with the selection of Marvin J. Final approval of Miller, assistant to the president of the United Steelworkers of America, will be subject to a vote of the players.

BYU Crushes WAC Champ-Utah 115-100

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Brigham Young University, paced by Dick Nemelka and Jeff Congdon, took the measure of Western Athletic Conference champion Utah 115-100 Saturday night.

Congdon scored 33 points and Nemelka 29 as the Cougars ended their conference season as the only WAC team to beat Utah twice this year. Jerry Chambers of Utah led all scorers with 48 points. But he had little offensive help from his teammates.

Brigham Young ran a way from Utah in the first half and led 64-43 at intermission. Utah's defense suffered because of the absence of George Fisher who broke a leg a week ago playing against New Mexico.

Utah plays in the Western Region NCAA tournament at Los Angeles next week and Brigham Young will play in the National Invitational Tournament at New York City next week.

Then came the Burley cold snap. With Burley doing nothing, Ken High hit two quick round shots. Sheen hit a jumper. Williams got two field goals and Wells and High polished the rally off.

Burley hit the first two field goals of the second half but had to stay 10 to 12 points behind until 1:42 remained in the period. Then Bandy, Church and Hutchison all got points to cut the edge to five.

Bandy opened the fourth quarter with a field goal to pull Burley fouled Sheen who iced the Bruins started going. Williams, held well in three and three-fourths games by Burley this year, blazed through 10 points to stretch the Bruin margin back to 54-45 with 2:40 to go.

Bandy and Davis replied for Burley in the next 60 seconds as Twin Falls' suddenly began making errors in the face of Burley's ball hawking. The Bobcats also missed several one-and-one free throw situations to

Frost Delays Opening of Munny Course

For the first time in many years March 1 has come and gone and Twin Falls area golfers are still playing on the winter greens.

Cold weather has maintained a high frost level in the summer greens and test-hole-drilling by Superintendent of Parks and Recreation Howard Johnson and course pro Clyde Thomsen Friday showed any attempt to use the permanent greens now would result in damage for the remainder of the season.

"We'll go on the summer greens as soon as it's possible now," reports Thomsen. "But we can't say when. We have to play it by ear. In the meantime we'll have the clubhouse, pro shop and restaurant open every day."

The Northern Chapter of the Rocky Mountain Section PGA will go ahead with the season despite the unseasonable weather. Blue Lakes Country Club will host a pro-pro tournament Monday for chapter members.

The professionals are slated to meet Sunday night to formulate a summer schedule, which will include all the pro-am and major professional, amateur and open tournaments. The slate will not be made public until later, however, since it must be cleared through the section meeting in Utah later this spring.

FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY

There's going to be quite a basketball game in the Twin Falls Gymnasium Monday night when the University of Idaho battles with the Idaho State Bengals.

It should be more like a tennis match and people sitting at midcourt might come away with a tired neck due to continual swiveling. But they won't be tired of the action. Those who have seen the teams play before say a total of 200 shots will probably be put up in the air.

While the teams provide their action on the court, the sideline might be interesting, too. ISU's Coach, Claude Retherford, and Idaho's Jim Goddard want this one badly. Both haven't had great seasons and this is the game the alumni look at.

Both can go in for the extra. Retherford, with his multi-pompadour coiffure and snappy dress, has packed them at Idaho State. In fact, Retherford's sideline antics, although they got him in trouble with the Big Sky Conference, have been packing them in at ISU. He's said to be a bigger draw than the nation's second leading scorer, Dave Wagoner.

Goddard hasn't the theatrical bent of Retherford but he's capable of lively and animated gestures on the sidelines. A Twin Falls couple who attended an Idaho game earlier in the year sat behind the Idaho bench where the yo-yo antics of Goddard were drawing sharp remarks from some anti-Idaho fans.

Finally one of the hecklers said "Sit down, Goddard." Goddard, who stands about 5 feet, 4 inches, came up with the squelch, "I have to see, don't I?"

Retherford is the showman, though, first and foremost. He's dominated ISU completely since he was introduced at the first ISU home game and had his wife come out of the crowd, pin a rose in his lapel and plant a buss on his cheek.

He dominates ISU followers and also newcomers, indicated by the lengthy article featured in Sports Illustrated. The pre-publication propaganda and the post-publication examination proved this hardly so. Retherford dominated the writing of the "slick paper magazine" writer as completely as he rules the ISU gym and crowd.

The two coaches came to Twin Falls for their finales with each knowing the inside of the doghouse.

Goddard got his lumps last week when he was hanged in effigy and athletic director Paul Ostyn reports a large delegation of students met with him the following morning demanding immediate action. The alumni also are exerting pressure.

"There's been some pressure much of the season but nothing big," Ostyn reports. "It really started building after the loss at Idaho State. Then the Vandals lost that overtime game at Montana State and it added some more fuel."

Retherford's trouble started when he was escorted from his own gymnasium after drawing four technical fouls recently. It is said the Big Sky commissioner, Jack Friel, made a trip to Pocatello and suggested Retherford either coach from the bench or go into the theater, but not combine the two. ISU cried all the way to the bank.

If Retherford hasn't found a home at ISU, it must surely be said that ISU has found its current idol in Retherford. This column predicted a year ago Retherford would either be a huge success or a dismal failure on the floor because he's the type that knows no middle ground. On the personality rating, he's No. 1. It's said that Sports Illustrated has freighted an extra 5,000 copies of its ISU feature publication into Pocatello Thursday morning and there wasn't one left by 8 p.m. We also like Retherford's quote before Big Sky sports writers before the season started: "We will have the least mature but the best-coached club," he said. It's designed to put people in the stands, ala Muhammad Ali, and it did so. In summing up we'd have to say this Monday night date in the local gym has considerable more going for it than the usual fare between two losing basketball teams.

Mathews pumped through 29 points, 28 of them from the field, as the Hornets took a meager lead in the first quarter and pushed it inexorably upward all night. The championship-capped comeback that couldn't have been longer for the Hornets. They dropped their first game in a 68-66 upset to Oakley and then played every night, forcing the tournament into an extra session by knocking off previously unbeaten Glens Ferry Friday night.

Both teams will advance to the state playoff starting in Burley Thursday afternoon. Glens Ferry will play the second game of the afternoon session, meeting the champion of the first district while Declo will play the nightcap that evening, going against the runner-up from the third district (Boise area).

It was simply a matter of a steady offense against Glens Ferry's sporadic efforts in shooting.

The first quarter was a barn burner with Declo taking an 18-16 advantage. In the second period the Hornets pushed it to 34-26 and that was the pattern of the game. After three periods Declo had its dominance pretty well established, going into the final quarter with 15 points to play with.

Mathews was the steadiest of them all. He got seven field goals in each half. Gene Fries seconded Mathews in scoring with 12 points while Carpenter took scoring honors for Glens Ferry at 17. Usually high scoring Rick Porter was held to nine.

Baseball Eyes Expansion in Other Lands

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball is cautiously eyeing foreign fields for possible expansion. Canada is preferred, and Japan and Mexico draw minority support.

However, an Associated Press survey showed that most owners feel there are American cities that must be satisfied before major league franchises are awarded abroad.

Only the Cleveland Indians and Chicago Cubs dissented on the subject of Canada, with the other 18 teams anywhere from cordial to enthusiastic on the subject.

Japan as a possible site for a major league franchise drew qualified support from the New York Mets, Los Angeles Dodgers, California Angels, Chicago White Sox, Atlanta Braves, Philadelphia Phillies and Kansas City Athletics.

The same clubs looked with favor on Mexico.

If any franchise is given to Japan the feeling is that there should be two major league teams in the Asian nation to simplify transportation problems.

A strong voice in favor of sending baseball abroad has been raised by the new commissioner, William D. Eckert.

"I can visualize within the foreseeable future," Eckert said, "the spread of major league baseball on an international scale to include Japan, Canada, and several Latin American countries."

Utah, Colorado Top Ski Meet

WINTER PARK, Colo. (AP) — Women skiers from the University of Utah and the University of Colorado tied today for first place in the Intermountain Intercollegiate Women's Ski Meet.

The two schools each had 30 points during the two day meet between nine schools. Utah's Claire Harrison won the slalom and Pamela Wallis, the giant slalom in Class A, while Colorado nailed down first in Class B.

Colorado State University had 26, University of Denver 15, Colorado Women's College 14 and Loretto Heights College 5.

Gooding Thumps Jerome to Collect A-4 Crown; Adamson Bows Out With 33 Points

Gooding High School was waited for 50 years, to make it all possible. Ron Adamson, won his first district basketball championship. Today it has two, thanks to a 70-56 romp over Jerome's Tigers Friday night. And the man Gooding had outings, now advance to the state playoffs in Pocatello next week where there will be at least six teams capable of winning it all. In fact, the A-2 appears to be the best balanced of Idaho's tournament season.

Jerome made a fight of it over the early going, scoring better for six minutes than it ever had. But at the end of that time the score was deadlocked.

Jerry Gibbons, Adamson and frosh Chris Oakley, who might be the new Adamson, then pumped through 34 points with only a two-point answer from Jerome and the championship was decided. Gooding held 10 to 13-point margins the rest of the way.

Leonard Bay hit a Gooding free throw to open the game and that one point let the lead change hands 13 times in the first six minutes as the teams took turns scoring in a torrid shooting display.

But Williams' field goal tied it at 16-all and Rick Humphreys added a free throw to give Jerome its last look at daylight. In the closing seconds Gibbons hit twice from the outside and Adamson once from the line to shove Gooding in front 21-17.

Adamson opened the second quarter with a three-point play and Oakley scored. Williams then got a pair of free throws for Jerome but the Adamson-Oakley combination clicked for five more, opening up a 31-19 edge and it was all over.

Grain Futures Close With Few Changes

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices galloped over broad ranges nearly every day last week in the grain futures market, but finished with little change.

Losses were broad and general on two days, and on three prices moved up moderately. At the end of the week, all wheat contracts showed losses with old crop months down rather sharply, while soybeans closed moderately higher. Other grains were narrowly mixed.

Tenders on March contracts in the pits and reports of massive government sales of corn by the government were the major bearish influences.

Delivery notices on the March contracts were large but not wholly unexpected.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1/4-1/2 cents a bushel lower than a week ago, March 15 1/2-1/4, March 20 23 1/4, March 25 24 1/4, March 30 25 1/4, April 5 26 1/4, April 10 27 1/4, April 15 28 1/4, SOUTH VIET NAM SOLDIERS carry ashore at sea a seaman wounded in a Viet Cong attack on a small tanker, the Paloma, under charter to the Shell Oil Co., on the Saigon River a few miles south of the city. U.S. Marine at right went in with a relief force as advisor. The Communist gunners were hidden in a mangrove swamp on the west bank of a ship channel 15 miles southeast of Saigon. A raging fire in the ship's center hold burned for three hours. Ten crewmen were reported wounded. The tanker was towed to Nha Be, South Viet Nam's main fuel storage dump. (AP wirephoto)

First Container Plant in Idaho Is Located in Burley

BURLEY — The first and only container plant in Idaho is located at Burley and is owned and operated by Boise Cascade Corp. Container Division.

The plant commonly called the box factory, was built and opened for business in August, 1958. It was the second plant of its kind to be built by Boise Cascade.

Cheese Plant Has Enlarged At Richfield

RICHFIELD — Progress in every phase of the work has marked the past 20 years of Richfield's chief industry, the creamery and cheese plant.

Twenty years ago this summer Clifford Ward and family moved to Richfield from Rexburg to manage the Nelson Ricks Creamery. He replaced George Engstrom who was transferred to Driggs. Ward operated the business as manager until eight years ago when he started leaving the cheese factory.

Ward began his cheese making with one wooden vat and two employees, Fay Coffman and Ray Flavel. Ward and his wife, Olive, did all the testing then as they still do much of the time. Their five children all grew up with a hand in the cheese making.

They are now the new plant manager, Mrs. Richard (Sharon) Christensen, Provo, Utah; Dallas Ward, a senior at BYU; Lowell Ward, on an LDS mission to the Indo, Calif.; Western Spanish American area; and Joyce Ward, 12, who helps out with wrapping 10 pound cheese bricks.

The plant operates in two buildings on Richfield's main street in the north part of town. The hum of activity is curtailed, but little by winter weather but employment drops from 34 to 18 because of less milk production in the cold weather.

The cheese plant operates in two shifts with some workers up at 2:30 a.m. Two holding tanks store the milk in readiness for cheese making. There are three stainless steel vats and one cheddarizing vat. Both Monterey Jack and American Cheddar cheese are made.

Later shipped to Salt Lake City to be cut, sized and aged. A number of women are employed in the creamery, often doing much the same work as the men except for heavy lifting. They watch vats, dip cheese, dump milk, dress hoops and wrap cheese.

Two women, Mrs. Vern Spencer and Mrs. Francis Sinclair, work as cheese starters and take moisture. Mrs. Clive Capps and Mrs. Dee Wolverton are bookkeepers.

Ward owns four of the five trucks used in his business and owns most of the plant equipment. Two of the trucks are bulk milk tanks, and the largest, called a Mack, makes the many hauls to Salt Lake hauling cheese and bringing back supplies and feed.

The driver of the big diesel is Jerry Davis. Ward also hires Louis Whitesell and his truck for milk routes. Morris Swanson is fieldman for the creamery and also drives a milk truck at times.

Space for new and more modern equipment has caused much of the enlargement of the creamery, with cinderblock and concrete additions, throughout the years Ward has been in Richfield.

Purchase of the building across the street from the cheese plant gave space for a larger office and cheese storage.

In 1959 a warehouse was built at the Burley location at 1544 W. 27th St. The first manager was Gordon Randall.

Containers are made for the frozen and fresh potato industries, meat cases, poultry containers, canning cases and boxes for candy companies. At the present time containers are made for the government for shipping foods and supplies to Viet Nam.

This spring it is planned to build additional warehouse, new offices and a lunch room.

The company ships containers to all parts of Idaho, to Eastern Oregon, Utah and Wyoming, with warehouses located at Blackfoot and Idaho Falls. There are four sales offices located at Burley, Boise, Idaho Falls and Salt Lake City.

The large rolls of paper weigh 500 pounds each and are used for the outside and inside lining of the boxes with a corrugated middle lining. The plant mixes its own glue starch in 1,000 gallon tanks.

The boxes are made in four colors with the seams being taped, glued or stitched with metal stitching. Most commonly used is the taped joint.

The printing press may print company name and product in two colors on the containers. All the containers are shipped flat with 90 per cent of the product going to its destination by truck.

There are 60 employees at the plant the year around working two shifts. During August through May, the rush season, a third shift sometimes is needed.

The plant has its own maintenance shop, which also will be enlarged this spring. The present general manager at the Burley plant is Daniel R. Scoggin. He started out with the company as a salesman.

Boise Cascade is a young, growing company which stresses development of both its major resources — trees and people. They are proud of the products made from timber and the full utilization of the trees cut.

Today there are 15 container plants owned by the company in the United States. The company also owns and operates sawmills, plywood mills and millwork plants, pulp and paper mills and retail and wholesale outlets. No part of the tree is wasted by the firm, Scoggin notes.

Japan, which moved into second place in the 1963 tabulations, held that position in 1964 with the addition of 1.6 million.

The gain for the year was 4.3 million but other countries continued to grow at an even faster relative rate.

Most of the North American total is in the United States, with 88.5 million telephones at the beginning of 1965.

The year 1964 ended a decade during which the world's telephones almost doubled in number.

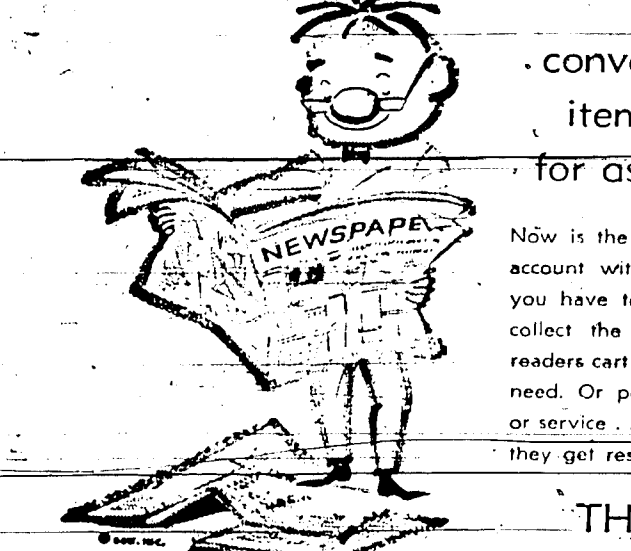

North America alone, with 95.5 million, has as many telephones today as the whole world in 1955.

A total of 11.5 million telephones went into service during 1964, bringing the world total to 182.5 million.

Canadians Top List for Phone Usage

WASHINGTON (UPI). — The nation's capital shares President Johnson's liking for telephones. It holds the world's record of 9 telephones for each 10 residents.

Only three other cities come within range of Washington — Skokie, Ill., and White Plains, N. Y., with 7.6 for each 10 persons and Stockholm, Sweden, with 7.2.

These facts are disclosed in statistics published by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Canadians, it appears, use the phone more than anybody else. Last year, they averaged 622.8 conversations per person.

Then came the Virgin Islands with an average of 620.4, the United States with 591, and Sweden with 449.6.

Low men on the totem pole were Cambodia and the Congo (Leopoldville) with averages of 1.1, which would indicate that for them the telephone is more ornamental than useful.

A total of 11.5 million telephones went into service during 1964, bringing the world total to 182.5 million.

The year 1964 ended a decade during which the world's telephones almost doubled in number.

North America alone, with 95.5 million, has as many telephones today as the whole world in 1955.

Lenten Guideposts Short Cut to Real Freedom

By DAVE BRUBECK
Famed Jazz Pianist

When I was growing up, it seemed to me that rules and disciplines were invented by adults to frustrate a kid's natural inventiveness. Household chores and music practice seemed calculated to rob me of free time to do as I wished.

Aimless improvisation was much more to my liking than scales and notated pieces. As a teenager this desire for unhampered freedom attracted me to jazz.

When I grew older I decided to become a composer and to study music seriously with the great French composer, Darius Milhaud.

My ignorance of basic rules of composition made me feel horribly inadequate in his class room. While other students learned their rudiments and prepared for this opportunity, I had preferred to improvise, to climb trees and to live my own imaginary world.

Idea Hampered
These actions developed qualities which were helpful in creating original ideas, but the ideas were continually hampered in fruition by my lack of disciplined technical knowledge.

Day by day, in Milhaud's presence I learned a lesson in life as well as music. He made me realize that it was only in a child's imaginary world that one exists without rules.

Milhaud pointed out to me that jazz had appeared free because I had unconsciously absorbed and accepted its fundamental laws. I could express myself freely in jazz, and used rules as a basis for developing a music of my own.

Rules, after all—whether they are rules for jazz improvising, counterpoint, or the Ten Commandments—are summaries of past experience. If I would accept them, I wouldn't have to go through the same trial and error experience as my predecessors before I could be free to develop something new.

Good rules aren't really restrictions but are shortcuts to freedom.

Free—With Rules
Today my wife and I have six children. Ready-made rules are not easy for them to accept.

When they question, I remind them of the disciplined hours that lie behind each perfect performance, whether in music, ballet, theater or an athletic event.

I tell them life is a continual effort to perform perfectly and harmoniously while we seek to express freely our own individuality.

I recall Milhaud's words that meant so much to me, "You cannot be free until you have mastered the rules."

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, March 6—Born today, you have a gay, charming personality and know how to make friends wherever you go. You do pay a price for such friendliness, however, and that is that you are far too inclined to worry about unimportant matters—about how another will react to your clothes, your looks, your material possessions. You would do better to worry more about your friends, and not about how you impress them; if you hadn't impressed them favorably, after all you wouldn't have them.

Gifted with a keen sense of humor, you know how to laugh not only with others but at yourself. This is a characteristic that has endeared you to many, and one which you should be at some pains not to lose or tarnish through allowing it to deteriorate into sarcasm or witticisms made at the expense of others. Keep your laughter on a high plane; remember that it is a gift that can lighten everyone's load if you let it.

In spite of your ability to get along with others, you are highly opinionated and will not tolerate any interference when it comes to doing what you feel is right. This, in fact, may be one of the things that brings you so many friends; they can count on your doing the right thing—and on your leading them to do the right thing, too.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, March 7
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)—Be prepared to take full advantage of the opportunity knocking at your door. Don't be surprised when you discover the source.

ARIES (March 21-April 20)—Consider all new contracts carefully. Keep an eye out for the one that offers you real advantages, not just on-paper results.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Real progress for the Taurus whose aims are high and whose efforts are both honest and practical. Keep an open mind.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—You should be able to solve problems on the home and employment scenes easily if you combine intuition with knowledge gained from experience.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—The forces of activity are exceptionally strong today. Make use of them; accomplish something you've long considered worthwhile.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Discover the cause of difficulties on the home front and you may at the same time have discovered the cause of trouble on the employment scene.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—An excellent day for contacting old friends. You might even consider contacting a foe or two; things may have changed.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Matters on the home front may well be more important than anything else today. Iron out all domestic problems at once.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—A day for personal activities. A new idea may prove to be gold-mine as far as your future is concerned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Romance and merchandising make strange but congenial company today. Don't be afraid to let yourself go.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)—Keep on your toes today if you would bring home the prize this evening. Bear in mind that effort and success ate inseparable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Domestic partners may be as important as business or professional colleagues in the successful conclusion of deals today.

RELATIVE DIES
SHOSHONE—Word was received by Mrs. Mona Turnbull of the death of her son-in-law, Robert Freil, 56, Hammond, Ind.

Mr. Freil was retired from the Navy several years ago. Final rites were held in Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, D.C.

A sister of Mrs. Freil, Mrs. Eugene Alexander, Richfield, attended the services and is still in Indiana with Mrs. Freil.

Contributions For Packages Are Scarce

The Petticoat Pollys reported Saturday they have sent four packages to men in Viet Nam.

Mrs. John Christofferson, Viet Nam project chairman, said there have been very few contributions for this project outside the club.

Mrs. Steele Barnett, Boise GOP National Committeewoman for Idaho, was a guest speaker at a meeting of the club. In reviewing the results of the last election, Mrs. Barnett said Idaho is one of six states to elect both a Republican House and Senate. She also stated that Idaho is the only state in the Union to unseat an "incumbent" Democrat in the House.

Mrs. John Detweiler, program; Mrs. Alvin Jenkins, telephone, and Mrs. L. James Koutnik, publicity, have been appointed as committee chairmen for 1966.

Mrs. Robert Stephan, president, announced that the May meeting will be a joint meeting with the Twin Falls County Women's Republican Club, and Gov. Robert Smylie will be the guest speaker.

Petticoat Pollys' March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Christofferson, 1130 Fremont Drive.

Youth Recovers From Fall Injury

SHOSHONE—Gregory Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Beck, is recovering from a concussion he received when he fell from a pickup truck last week while riding from high school to the Lincoln school cafeteria for lunch.

He was a patient at Gooding Memorial Hospital and now is recovering at home. Three stitches were required to close a wound on the back of his head.

Merit Exams for Jobs Announced

Merit examinations for positions of clerk typist and stenographer were announced Friday by the Idaho Merit System Council.

Applications must be filed in the office of Thomas H. Charney, Box 987, Boise, before March 31.

The position of stenographer has a salary range of $256-$311. The clerk typist, has a salary range of $232-$282.

Jamboree Participants Convene for Buffet Social

Women's Page Editor

Members of country music bands from throughout Magic Valley, along with their wives or girlfriends, gathered at the YM-YWCA building for a buffet dinner and social, climaxing this year's activities with the Country Music Jamboree held in February.

The Country Music Jamboree is an annual benefit show held at the Filer High School Auditorium, but this is the first social devised for show participants.

Mrs. Charles Crane was one of the hostesses for the event, assisted by other wives of valley musicians.

Special guests at the social were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Peck, Twin Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mahan, Jerome. Peck is secretary of the board of directors for the Idaho Youth Ranch, which was the recipient of the recent benefit, and Mahan is chairman of the board of directors.

Peck welcomed the guests and thanked them for their participation in the benefit. He introduced Mahan who told of the various projects under way at the Idaho Youth Ranch and invited all to visit the ranch at any time.

Included among the projects listed by Mahan is the construction of a new home unit, which will include a dental room, barber shop, photographic laboratory, a hobby area and a recreation room.

Mahan pointed out articles that appeared in a recent issue of the Idaho Youth Ranch paper, The Maverick, including a picture and short summary of the boys' study habits. It stated, "For most of the boys at the ranch, studying is a serious matter. The quiet homey atmosphere of the living room or the library makes it just a little easier to concentrate. Following dinner each boy returns to his ranch home for a minimum of one hour of supervised study. There is always a staff member on hand at this time to help the boys with any problems they might be having with their school work."

Mahan noted various donations recently made to the ranch and thanked the guests for their generous contribution.

Background music prior to the dinner and following the dinner was played by Tip and the Raiders.

General chairmen for the Country Music Jamboree were Gene Bosserman and Rudolph (Rudy) Williamson. Bands participating in this year's benefit include The Playboys, The Versatiles, Waldon Brothers, Tip and the Raiders, Johnny and the Misfits, The Rhythm-aires, Tune Twisters, Rhythm Rangers, Melody Masters, MC's, Last Resorts, Country Cousins, Rork Sisters and the Teenagers and the Kings Harvesters. Al Lee was master of ceremonies for the event.

ASSISTING HIS WIFE, Carol, with her coat is Leo Braun at a buffet social at the YWCA. The social was attended by members of country music bands from throughout Magic Valley, along with their wives or girlfriends, climaxing this year's activities in connection with the Country Music Jamboree held in February at Filer. Braun is a member of the Country Cousins. (Times-News photo)

VISITING AFTER THE DINNER at the YWCA are Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Clayton. Clayton is a member of the well known country music band, Johnnie and the Misfits. This is the first social devised for those participating in the Country Music Jamboree. (Times-News photo)

AMONG THE GUESTS at the social were Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Steinmetz. Eden Steinmetz is a member of the Melody Masters who have played for various activities throughout Magic Valley. (Times-News photo)

Jamboree went to the Idaho Youth Ranch. This is the third year the Idaho Youth Ranch has been recipient of the benefit. Mahan is chairman of the ranch board of directors and Peck is secretary. (Times-News photo)

Country Music Bands Host Buffet Social

The jamboree itself has a unique beginning, starting merely with seasonal get-togethers of musicians at the home of Bosserman. The crowd got so big that a change had to be made and now these one-time small "jam sessions" constitute one of the best country music shows in Idaho.

The first year the proceeds went to the YM-YWCA, the second year to the Easter Seal Center and the past three years to the Idaho Youth Ranch.

All types of country music is heard at the jamboree, from classical western arrangements to downright hillbilly selections. Artists performing come from a wide range of occupations and include some who have several recordings to their credit, some who play for public dances and night clubs throughout Magic Valley and those who play country music simply for the enjoyment of doing so.

Country music lovers all agree their music is here to stay.

Health Nurse Gives Program

WENDELL — Mrs. Veronica Maus, Gooding county health nurse, presented an article concerning health, "Day Dreaming," at the meeting of the Wendell Health Council at the home of Mrs. W. H. Niccum.

Mrs. Hugh Caldwell, reported on the prices of mattresses for hospital beds belonging to the council. Action was taken to purchase two polyethylene mattresses and plastic protection covers. Mrs. Maus reported that three pairs of crutches have been donated to the health council.

Gifts were received by Mrs. Maus, Mrs. Caldwell, Mrs. Niccum, Mrs. Orlando Jacobson, Mrs. H. J. Barton and Mrs. Bailey Lorain.

Leona Gough, Roberts Wed in February Rites

Leona Gough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herald Gough, Twin Falls, and Robin Dean Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Roberts, Jerome, were united in marriage Feb. 19 in rites at the Twin Falls First Christian Church.

Rev. Donald Hoffman performed the double ring ceremony before a background setting of yellow and white chrysanthemums in white cathedral candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor-length gown designed by Original of hand-clipped French Chantilly lace over white tulle. The gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice, scalloped sabrina neckline, enhanced with a rose topped satin bow dramatizing the back waistline and long lily point sleeves.

The tiered lace skirt cascaded into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls and a crystal teardrop accenting the front. Her jewelry was a crystal teardrop necklace. She carried a white Bible centered with a bouquet of yellow and white feathered chrysanthemums enhanced with golden gardenias and white rosebuds.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Ernie Stuart, friend of the bride. Dr. Frank Roberts, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Richard Roberts, brother of the bridegroom, Campbell, Calif., and Richard Kunz, Jerome, cousin of the bridegroom.

Traditional wedding music was played by Nancy Brackett. She accompanied Richard Larsen, soloist.

Jill Stonemetz, Twin Falls, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Jerryce Stonemetz, Twin Falls, cousin of the bridegroom, and Rawlins Stanley, Gooding, cousin of the bride, were candlelighters.

Guests were registered by LaVonne Kistler, sister of the bride. The newlyweds greeted guests at a reception in the church reception hall. The bride's table was covered with lace over yellow, and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake flanked by double candelabra. The cake was decorated with yellow and white rosebuds and Mrs. Lonzo Baldwin was in charge of the missionary program and had members read various articles. Mrs. Loy Vanski, president, gave out Valentine folders containing scriptures.

Mrs. Walter Pearson, Mrs. John Gaskill and Mrs. Edward Reagan were appointed as the nominating committee. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. William Sweet and Mrs. Lonzo Baldwin.

topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

The guest tables were covered with white lace and centered with crystal snifters containing floating roses. The cake was served by Thelma Quigley and Mrs. Charles McMannan, aunts of the bride and bridegroom. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Bill Stonemetz, aunt of the bridegroom, and punch was served by Ellen Swisher, cousin of the bride.

Gifts were carried by Kathy Quigley, cousin of the bride, Terry Hanel and Dixie Gray. The traveling ensemble worn by the bride was a gift from the bridegroom.

A special guest at the wedding was Marsha Roberts, Campbell, Calif., sister of the bridegroom.

HEYBURN — Ellen Marie Paul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leo Paul, Heyburn, became the bride of Robert Lynn Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lindh, Emerson district, Feb. 21 at the Salt Lake City LDS Temple.

The ceremony was performed by President S. Dilworth Young. Accompanying the couple to the temple were her parents, Bishop and Mrs. Harold Hurst, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Christensen, Mrs. Gene Hamilton and Mrs. Robert Despain, all Heyburn; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson, Burley; Mrs. Ruckett, Oakley; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ballingham and Mrs. Isabella Paul, all Ogden; Mrs. Dee Kunz, Layton, Utah, and Mrs. Harry Zabriskie, Salt Lake City.

The couple was honored at a wedding reception Feb. 22 at the Heyburn LDS Cultural Hall. White and shades of blue set the color scheme for hall decorations. Guests were greeted before a setting of silver sprayed manzanita branches entwined with soft blue blinking lights and white sugar-bells. The setting was flanked by arrangements of blue and white feathered flowers.

The bride wore a gown of embossed taffeta fashioned with a bell-shaped skirt enhanced with a cummerbund which formed a large bow in the back. The fitted bodice featured a rounded neckline and lily point sleeves. A feathered daisy tiara secured her fingertip-length veil of nylon net. She carried a sunburst bouquet of feathered blue daisies encircling a white feathered pompon and tied by blue and white satin streamers.

Susan Davis, Ogden, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Dana Besswanger, Heyburn, and Kathleen Hymas, Burley; Caroline Paul, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

Best man was William Thomson, Burley. Ushers were Fred Paul, and John Paul, brothers of the bride, and Dennis Jackson, brother of the bridegroom. Leo Paul was master of ceremonies for the program.

The guest book was attended by Mrs. Lennie Jackson, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Gifts, carried by James Paul and Kim Paul, both brothers of

Local Woman Will Sing Lead Role in Opera

Mrs. Lloyd (Mary) Walker, well-known Twin Falls soprano, will sing the leading role when the Boise Philharmonic Orchestra presents Puccini's opera, "La Boheme," the week of March 20 in Boise.

The opera presentation will be the first main production presented in the new Carnegie High School Auditorium, Boise. This auditorium is considered to be one of the finest auditoriums in Idaho and is acoustically excellent. No microphones will be needed and a specially designed orchestra pit is used by the full orchestra.

The first presentation of "La Boheme" is set for 3 p.m. March 20 and it will be given especially for Magic Valley. Tickets for the production will be available locally. Mrs. Donald Youtz, Twin Falls, is chairman for local ticket sales, assisted by the Twin Falls Music Club, president, Mrs. John Birrell, members of the Dilante Group of Magic Valley, Mrs. Louis Thorson and the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce members.

Jay Fowels, Bellevue rancher, is another Magic Valley resident who will be featured in "La Boheme." He will sing the leading tenor role of Rudolpho. Other soloists featured include Joan Anderson as Musetta, Gordon Elchmann as Marcello, and David Weir, Robert Gibb, Bert Burda, and Richard Cable.

Mrs. Walker, who plays the lovely Mimi in the opera, is especially well-cast for this role. Although well known for her musical comedy performances, Mrs. Walker is a gifted and experienced classical singer. Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., she studied voice from the age of 12, and later attended the Juilliard School of Music.

In 1952 she studied at the Baden Conservatory, Germany. Mrs. Walker has been a resident of Twin Falls for the past ten years, where her husband is an attorney. She is the mother of three children. During her residence in Twin Falls she has sung in many outstanding musical productions.

She sang leading roles in the Dilante production of "Annie Oakley" and last year's highly successful "South Pacific." Two years ago she appeared as soloist with the Boise Philharmonic in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. She was also featured in the original opera by C. Griffith Bratt, "Ring Around the Rose," which was commissioned for the Idaho Centennial observance. At the present time her vocal coach is Lucille Lippincott of Twin Falls and Boise.

"La Boheme," an opera in four acts, is considered one of the great opera classics and is one of the most popular operas performed today. The Boise production will be sung in the English language.

"La Boheme" is an opera in which comedy and tragedy, charming idealism and harsh reality, are richly interwoven through the beautiful and well-known melodies. The opera depicts life in the Students' Quarter of Paris in the 1830's. Four young men, an artist, a poet, a philosopher and a musician, are all struggling to achieve success. Rudolpho, the poet, meets the frail, lovely Mimi, and their love story is beautifully and tragically woven throughout the opera.

"La Boheme" was first presented in 1896, and became an instant success. The charm and expressiveness of the music has made this opera a favorite all over the world.

This is the third completely staged opera to be presented by the Boise Philharmonic, and in each opera a Twin Falls soprano was chosen for the leading role. The first production, "Madame Butterfly," featured Mrs. Tom McVey, in the title role. Mrs. McVey also starred in last year's opera, "La Traviata."

Anyone wanting information about the March 20 performance in Boise should contact Mrs. Youtz, 733-7905.

Miss Lehmann, Davis Exchange Nuptial Vows

GOODING — Mary Ann Lehmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lehmann, Gooding, and Glen W. Davis, Mountain Home, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin J. Davis, Springfield, Ore., were united in marriage Jan. 31 at Calvary Lutheran Church.

Rev. Walter E. Bellman officiated at the double-ring rites. Huge baskets of white gladioli and branched wrought-iron candelabra decorated the chancel. Candelabra holding tall white tapers entwined with greenery were at each pew.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long length semi-sheath gown of a chapel train appliqued with alencon lace. The dress was accented with a rounded neckline and long lily point sleeves. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held by a pearl tiara. She carried a white Bible topped with roses and ivy with a white orchid in the center. Her double strand of pearls was a gift from the bridegroom.

Bride attendants were Mrs. Delbert Hostetter, matron of honor, and Mrs. Paul Timm, both Mountain Home.

Candlelighters were Janice Lehmann, sister of the bride, and Robert Davis, brother of the bridegroom. Flower girl was "Joan-James," Gooding. Douglas Koch, Pocatello, was ringbearer.

Lee Lehmann, Pocatello, brother of the bride, was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. I.H. Snively. Mrs. Snively also played the traditional wedding music.

James Davis, Springfield, Ore., was best man. Ushers were Del Hostetter, Mountain Home, and Robert Lehmann, Kalispell, Mont., brother of the bride.

Mrs. LaVern Deden, Ontario, Ore., was in charge of the guest book. Gifts were arranged by Kathy Strickland, Sandra Bristow and Linda Bristow.

A four-tiered white wedding cake, decorated in gold and green and encircled with gold pompons and ivy, was made by Mrs. Lyle Thomas. The cake was cut by Mrs. Ed Schutte, assisted by Mrs. Effie Fisher. Presiding at the coffee service was Mrs. Richard Strickland. Punch was poured by Mrs. LeRoy Bickford. The Lutheran Women's Missionary League was in charge of the reception.

The couple took a wedding trip to California. They will reside in Eugene, Ore.

Pre-nuptial events honoring the bride included a lingerie shower hosted by Mrs. Raymond Pruett, Mrs. Robert En-

DECIO — The Order of Eastern Star, Chapter No. 46, Burley, met with Mrs. Edwin Schwaegler, worthy matron, presiding. She welcomed the special guest, Mrs. Rex Wood, representing Chapter No. 14, Blackfoot.

Mrs. Schwaegler announced a cooking school will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. March 17 at the Elks Lodge, sponsored by Intermountain Gas Co., Simplot's and Herald-Bulletin. She encouraged all organizations to attend.

Mrs. Austin Woodworth and Mrs. Richard Pullman were selected to assist a committee from the Masons to plan a party for both organizations.

Plans were completed for the chapter to serve a banquet for the Christian Women's Fellow-

Carol Thiel, Walker Marry In Dietrich

DIETRICH — Carol Thiel, Salt Lake City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thiel, former Dietrich residents, and Lyn Walker, Salt Lake City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Walker, Idaho Falls, were united in marriage Feb. 12 in the Dietrich Grange Hall.

Probate Judge C. M. Wilson, Shoshone, performed the ceremony before an archway of ferns flanked by two large baskets of white chrysanthemums and blue ribbon bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white brocade satin sheath dress with long sleeves and a rounded neckline. Her shoulder-length veil was topped by a pearl decorated tiara. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums centered with white rosebuds and white ribbon streamers.

Matron of honor and best man were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lewis, Salt Lake City.

Miniature bridesmaids were Jolene Dotson, Gooding, niece of the bride, and Julie Walker, Salt Lake City, daughter of the bridegroom.

The reception table, covered with lace over blue, was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake reflected on a large round mirror. The cake was decorated with blue and white flowers, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Blue tapers flanked the cake.

Mrs. Kay Walker, Provo, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, played the traditional wedding music.

Mrs. Wesley Dotson, Gooding, cut and served the wedding cake. Mrs. Ben Lauer, Dietrich, and Mrs. Roy Thiel, Wahpeton, N.D., served the punch and coffee.

Mrs. Mark Roberts, Jerome, was in charge of the guest book and gift table, assisted by Mrs. Dee Aslett, Pocatello.

Mrs. Sidney Edwards Sr. assisted with decorations and reception arrangements.

An informal luncheon was held prior to the wedding for families and relatives of the couple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lauer.

Pre-nuptial shower was hosted for the bride in Salt Lake City by her friends.

The couple will reside at 410 Leslie Ave., Salt Lake City.

Miss Hagemann is a senior at Valley High School. Martens is a 1965 graduate of Buhl High School and is attending Idaho State University, where he is majoring in engineering.

An August wedding is planned at the Eden Trinity Lutheran Church.

Literature Lesson Given

WENDELL — Mrs. LeRoy Gibbs, literature instructor for the LDS Relief Society, presented the literature lesson, "The Place of Suffering in Life," at the Relief Society meeting at the church.

Three selections considered were "The Lament" by Anton Chekhov, given by Mrs. Ella Mae Parker and Mrs. David O'Leary; Luigi Pirandello's "War," presented by Mrs. Jed Hansen and Mrs. J. E. Barrus; and the presentation of the poem, "Compensation," by Ralph Waldo Emerson, given by Mrs. Gibbs.

Colored Slides Shown at Area Civic Club Meet

SHOSHONE — Colored slides of Idaho flowers were shown by Mrs. D. G. Mitchell during the monthly meeting of Civic Club. The club is the local affiliate with the General Federated Women's Club.

Mrs. Mitchell noted the Idaho flowers shown were only those growing south of Salmon River. Lewis and Clark were responsible for selection of the state flower, the Syringa. They were attracted to it by its fragrance.

The dandelion was imported to this country from Europe and Asia where it had been used for medical purposes.

Among the flowers shown was the Red Pond Lily. The pictures were difficult to take as they grow in water at least six feet deep. The roots of the plant grow that deep.

During the business meeting of the club, members voted to purchase ribbon for the art display program.

Mrs. Steven Boller was accepted as a new member.

Hostesses were Mrs. William Kerner, Mrs. Charles Hansen, Mrs. Paul Jacobsen and Mrs. Domingo Solaga.

T. F. Garden Club Program Is Presented

"Inspiration from the Orient" was the theme for the program at the meeting of the Twin Falls Garden Club.

Mrs. John Flatt, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Thomas Speedy who spoke on "Bonsai Beauty," the art of dwarfing trees and plants for decorative effects. These plants are always potted and should suggest a scene or perfection in miniature. Mrs. Speedy discussed suitable types of containers, soils and methods of planting. She displayed several potted plants to illustrate her talk.

A report was given by Mrs. Thomas Hicks on landscaping projects of the club. New activities were discussed.

Mrs. Ed Reichert, Filer, director of the Magic Valley district of the State Garden Clubs, reported on the luncheon meeting attended by members from Castleford, Jerome and Twin Falls.

Plans for the state convention of Federated Garden Clubs set for June 27, 28 and 29 in Twin Falls were discussed by Mrs. Hicks, general chairman.

Tea was served from a table decorated in a St. Patrick's Day motif, arranged by Mrs. Emma Steffen, Marion Turner and Clara Walton.

The next meeting is April 6. A program on "Beauty in Our Gardens" will be presented by Mrs. John Flatt.

Mrs. J. T. Ricketts, Jerome, president of the Idaho State Federation of Garden Clubs, spoke on the Readers' Digest $5,000 Foundation, "Showcase of Beauty" contest at the Magic Valley District Federated Garden Clubs luncheon meeting held at the cafeteria in the Elks Building.

The contest is on new or continued beautification projects undertaken by clubs. Cash awards range from $50 to $500 to an individual club or group of clubs. Entries will be judged on a national basis. Deadline for application is April 1, 1966.

Mrs. Ed Reichert, Filer, district director, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Stanley Bednar gave the invocation. State officers introduced include Mrs. Ricketts, Mrs. J. R. Webster, Jerome, corresponding secretary; Mrs. S. W. Smith, historian; Mrs. Hazel Hargis, judges council chairman; and Mrs. T. W. Hicks, anti-litter and publicity chairman.

Club presidents, Mrs. Gene Todd, Petal Pals Club; Mrs. Hargis, Leaf and Petal Club; and Mrs. Smith, Twin Falls Garden Club, gave brief reports and introduced their members. Mrs. R. C. Lawson, secretary-treasurer, gave reports. Mrs. Paul Standley resigned as first assistant director and Mrs. Fred Nelsen, Jerome, was appointed to the office. Mrs. Alfred Kramer, Castleford, was appointed second assistant director.

Revised bylaws were adopted and members voted to set a registration fee to defray program expenses at future district meetings.

Mrs. Hicks, convention chairman, outlined the program for the state convention, June 16, 17 and 18 in Twin Falls. Mrs. Fred Maunel, president of National Council of State Garden Clubs, will address the assembly. Mrs. Howard Kittell, Fort Worth, Tex., noted flower arranger, will demonstrate floral designs. She will talk on civic beautification.

Announcement was made of the flower show school course No. 5, June 27, 28 and 29 at Jerome. Mrs. Joe Wolff, Bellevue, Wash., will lecture and demonstrate floral designs and Herbert Gundell, Denver, Colo., will talk on horticulture and designs of plantings. These lectures are open to the public on

Marsha Harris, Spiers Wed in Home Ceremony

DECLO—Marsha Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron J. Harris, Declo, and Keith G. Spiers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Spiers, Oakley, repeated marriage vows in a home ceremony Feb. 26 at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warren, View.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Bishop Gate Ockey of the Oakley LDS Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of lace and white satin, styled with an empire waistline, a square neckline and long lily point sleeves. The back of the gown featured a bow which accented the long chapel train.

Maid of honor was Janis Schmidt. Bridesmaids were Charlotte Matthews and Pamela Harris, sister of the bride.

Best man was Karl U. Bedke. Following the ceremony, guests were served by Mrs. Albert Warren, grandmother of the bride. Mrs. Milton Harris, aunt of the bride, presided at the crystal punch bowl.

The square three-tiered wedding cake, centered on a large oval mirror, was decorated with bluebirds and white bells and topped with wedding bells encircled in blue and white net.

MR. GLENN G. MAHRT (Burley portraits)

Miss Kircher, Mahrt Repeat Nuptial Vows

BURLEY—The Burley Presbyterian Church was the setting for the Feb. 19 ceremony uniting in marriage Margaret Lee Kircher, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Kircher, and Glenn George Mahrt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mahrt, all Burley.

The double ring afternoon ceremony was performed by Rev. John W. Pickrell before setting-off two topiaries with pink and white carnations and chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, received vows in a street-length gown of white silk enhanced with a rounded neckline, fitted bodice and long sleeves.

Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was held by organdy white flowers adorned with seed pearls. Cascading white baby roses adorned with white satin streamers formed her bridal bouquet.

Ellen Hartsook, Twin Falls, was maid of honor.

Gary Mahrt, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Candelights and ushers were Mark L. Kircher, brother of the bride, and Gerald Arbogast.

Mrs. Jack Dunsmoor played the traditional wedding music. Following the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted guests in the reception hall. Kay Holcomb was in charge of guest book.

The bride's table, covered with white satin, was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake decorated with pale pink roses, topped by three white wedding bells. Arrangements of pink and white chrysanthemums flanked the wedding cake.

Mrs. Sirle Powers cut and served the wedding cake and Mrs. B. V. Holcomb and Mrs. Donald Brooks poured. All are aunts of the bride.

The couple took a wedding trip

PART WENT THAT WAY and part went the other way. That's what it looks like in this picture, because there are snowshoe tracks on both sides of the tree. The man making the tracks pulls up short for a backward look to see what happened. It was a part of the numerous things happening on a weekend which saw fathers and Cubs and Boy Scouts invade the Magic Mountain area for a stay at the Presbyterian Cabin. Keeping up with the events of the hectic period practically taxes the imagination. Name of this father is withheld for practical purposes. (Times-News photo)

Smiling Easter Seal Child Sparks Annual Drive Under Way Throughout Gem State

They call it a parade. In a way! Looking at it another way, it could be right because also could be called a drive, scores of women will be parading simply because they will be out, up and down city streets looking for donations which will aid the Easter Seal work being carried on throughout the state. The big parade in this area, sparked by members of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, Alpha Nu chapter — will be on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 16, 17 and 18. The two women directly responsible for anticipated success of the annual drive are Mrs. Carl Feeler, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Mark Wilkie, parade chairman, both sorority members. But, back of it all, and smiling all the time despite handicaps, is little Delene Pooler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean W. Pooler, 346 Sixth Ave. N. A first grade student at Washington school, she is Idaho's Easter Seal child for 1966. The personality of Delene is contagious, drive officials report, and as a result scores of women are volunteering for the leg work connected with the solicitation. Members of the National Guard Auxiliary, the Jay-Cettes and the Pinetree Girls are among those donating their time in the interest of the Easter Seal campaign. At the same time officials announced that Mrs. E. A. Henkelman, well known Twin Falls artist, has donated an oil of Silver Creek in the Big Wood River Valley to the drive. Proceeds from the sale of this painting will be earmarked for use in connection with the Easter Seal kindergarten in Twin Falls. The local Easter Seal center, under the guidance of Mrs. Merle Stoddard, has developed

OIL PAINTING OF Silver Creek, in the vicinity of Russian John Ranger Station along the Big Wood River, is admired by several people closely connected with the current Easter Seal fund drive. Delene Pooler, seated in front, is Idaho's Easter Seal Child for 1966. Others, from left, are Mrs. Carl Feeler, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Mark Wilkie, parade chairman, for the fund drive, and Mrs. D. W. Pooler, Delene's mother. Mrs. Feeler and Mrs. Wilkie are among those in charge of the fund campaign, backed this year in the county by Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, Alpha Nu chapter. The oil painting is the work of Mrs. E. A. Henkelman, Twin Falls artist, and proceeds from its sale will go to the kindergarten section of the Easter Seal Center here. The picture is on display at the Herrett Museum. (Times News photo)

FIRST GRADERS at Washington school in Twin Falls have a noted personage in their midst, and everyone takes the situation in stride. Delene Pooler, the little girl in the near center of this picture, the one with the broad smile, is Idaho's Easter Seal girl for 1966. School custodians made a special desk top so Delene could study right along with all the other youngsters and school officials say there is plenty of help from the boys when the time comes to move Delene and her wheel chair. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Pooler, Twin Falls, and is enrolled at the Easter Seal Center here. (Times-News photo)

Things Aren't as Bad as They Appear, Unless Cub Scout Fathers Are Near

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor
Things have a way of appearing much worse than they actually are, unless several fathers and their Cub Scout sons are involved. Then the appearance is usually a correct one. Things are really worse than they appear.
For instance, the members of Cub Scout Den 1, Pack 66, sponsored by the Presbyterian church in Twin Falls, had a big weekend all planned up in the Magic Mountain area. That's where the Presbyterian cabin is located.
Additional plans called for several fathers and a couple of Boy Scouts to tag along. The Cub Scouts were enthusiastic — the fathers much less so.
Then came the break the fathers had been waiting for. The flu epidemic really struck in the Twin Falls area.
They stood outside in the wind, they refused to wear hats and coats, they got their feet wet and they walked around outside with shirts unbuttoned while snowflakes dropped down onto their exposed chests.
It worked! When the time came to leave Twin Falls exactly one third of the fathers were in bed with influenza. One hundred per cent of the Boy Scouts planning to make the joint were in bed with the same thing. Only one-eighth of the Cub Scouts were ill, proving that they are made of tougher stuff than the older males.
Another blessing fell from above. The Times-News feature editor, knowing much better, had half-way promised that he would go along to record the happenings for posterity.
At the moment of getaway he heaved a sigh of relief even though breathing was difficult. He, too, was in bed with influenza.
So, likely as not, readers are by now wondering where all the details of the trip came from if the editor did not go on it. It is a closely kept secret, but they were whispered into his ear by one of the mothers who had her son trained to tell what went on when father took to the hills.
The trip was undertaken. It was a long way from the plowed road, up the deep snow trail to the cabin. It is sort of peculiar, but reports trickling down indicated it was much longer for the fathers than the boys.
The "inside" information acquired by the Times-News shows that outdoor activities were more or less standard, what with the deep snow in the area. It was the happenings inside the cabin that really took the cake.
There was that four-in-the-morning marshmallow roast in long-johns which was initiated by the wide awake boys. It resulted in their being stuffed back in their respective sleeping bags by their not so wide awake fathers.
After an intensive search for a missing air mattress, one father went to sleep without it, only to be awakened shortly

ONE OF TWO THINGS is happening. Either the Cub Scout is getting warm over a fire or scooping up a mouthful of water from a snow covered creek. Even the photographer wasn't sure, so the reader is given the chance to make up his own mind. One thing is certain—the white stuff is snow and it is deep in the Magic Mountain area. # Heart Attacks Blamed on Rich Foods, No Exercise

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — To kill a husband, heart specialists suggest, a wife should: Gorge him with food, especially rich dishes. Stash him down comfortably in front of television every night for many hours, and more hours on weekends — then trot out a stream of snacks and drinks from the kitchen into his waiting hand.
Never let him use a snow shovel, lawn mower and convince the insured victim that even walking a few blocks is bad for a man's heart.
Nag him in ways intended to kite up his blood pressure and frustrations — and never let a doctor check him over.
The process takes a while, and isn't entirely guaranteed. But it is the path that millions of men are riding, not walking, to become the majority of the 1,400 Americans killed each day by heart attacks, plus 500 more killed by brain strokes.
And, the specialists warn, these men are already being aided and abetted, quite unintentionally, by their wives.
And mothers are dooming many sons to early demise by encouraging them to adopt or inherit the same habits of living.
For, says Dr. Paul Dudley White, the famed Boston cardiologist who treated President Dwight D. Eisenhower during his heart attack: "The inheritance of our present habits and environment is the chief factor now in heart attacks, more than the natural heredity from our genes."
The tips for wives interested in protecting their husbands' hearts — rather than collecting life insurance early — come from Dr. White and other specialists interviewed during the annual meeting of the American College of Cardiology.
They are based upon years of research — human, animal and laboratory — to pinpoint the influences or dangers that seem to help produce this modern epidemic of heart attacks.
The basic killer usually is atherosclerosis, which means that arteries or pipelines carrying blood to the heart muscle itself become clogged with fatty deposits, a kind of biological rust.
"Atherosclerosis is the main reason why women now live about seven years longer, on the average, than men," says Dr. White. "A hundred years or so ago, the average lifespan was nearly equal."
What brings on this "rusting"? What can be done to prevent or slow it?
There is no single cause, the experts agree.
High blood pressure and diabetes are two hazards. But these troubles can usually be controlled now — if a doctor has a chance to detect them.
But other suspected influences are within a wife's or husband's control to act upon. Here are some major ones:
Excess pounds: "To wives, Dr. White says: 'Keep your own weight down. Watch his weight and diet, too.'"
In all probability, if you don't gain weight after age 25 or 24, and are physically active, and don't smoke, you are not likely to have a heart attack, or a stroke.
We all ought to become a little lighter as we grow older, for some muscle tissue turns to fat with the years.
Exercise and physical activity: Exercise and physical activity are more and more becoming PROUD OWNERS OF A spinning wheel estimated to be more than 100 years old are Mrs. Richard Moncur, Declo, and her small daughters, Louise, left, and Marlea. The spinning wheel belonged to the children's great-grandmother, Mrs. Sophia Olsen Erickson, who died in Declo in 1947 at the age of 97. Mrs. Vosco Parke, Mrs. Moncur's mother, acquired the antique and her husband refinished it, allowing the natural wood finish to show. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Most little girls of this modern day never have seen a spinning wheel, but Louise and Marlea Moncur, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moncur, DECLO, have one in their own home. The spinning wheel originally belonged to their great-grandmother, Mrs. Sophia Olsen Erickson, who came to this country from Sweden in 1871 at the age of 21. Just when Mrs. Erickson acquired the prized possession has been lost in the pages of time, but it is known that it has been in the family for at least a 100 years.

Mrs. Louise Zadorozny recalled how she and the other grandchildren would accompany Mrs. Erickson along the barbed wire fences to gather wool-sheep had left hanging on the pasture fence.

The wool was then gathered, washed, and combed with large combs to clean it, dyed and then put on the wheel, where it was twisted into yarn.

Mrs. Erickson owned a loom and here she would weave cloth and made lovely woolen carpets, which she would sell.

Mrs. Erickson died in Declo, in 1947 at the age of 97, and her granddaughter, Mrs. Vosco Parke, acquired the spinning wheel.

After several years, Parke began the difficult task of removing the dark green paint that hid the beautiful natural finish of the wood. After a year, the task was completed and the natural finish of the delicate wood shown through.

Mrs. Cleone Moncur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parke, and her family live in the Parke home and admire the wheel, which is placed before a large picture window.

The spinning wheel is not the only antique treasure in the home, as a sturdy, armless rocker that has been in the Anderson family at least 100 years also adds to the decor.

A love seat, which an antique dealer has estimated to be 135 years old, has been acquired from a cousin of Parke's in Portland.

The back rest of the seat has an intricately carved floral and leaf design, highlighted with inlaid mother-of-pearl.

The cushion has been recovered with soft antique red velvet. Although this piece is very treasured it does not have the sentimental attachment with it, as it did not belong to the immediate family.

Perhaps someday when petite Marlea, age 3, and Louise, 4 years old, grow a little older they will learn to sit and spin yarn on the still workable spinning wheel.

The beauty of Idaho's Sawtooth mountain country will grace the halls of RICHFIELD'S new elementary school. The generosity of two Richfield women made this possible by presenting oil paintings.

Two of Mrs. Carl Paulson's paintings and one painted by Mrs. Donald Walker will be hung in the school foyer. Mrs. Paulson's painting of Stanley Basin in the Sawtooth Valley was purchased by the Junior high students.

The brown tones of the setting are set off by the use of grey and green shadows with the pink of the sun reflected on rocks by the river.

Mrs. Paulson and Mrs. Walker each donated a picture with Mrs. Paulson's second scene depicting the Big Wood River country in the fall. Yellow, orange and brown tones form the river against a background of trees and mountains.

Mrs. Walker's picture was painted from a scene cut out of the Times-News. It is a picture of Red Fish Lake and mountains. Deep colors of green and blue are used.

The women are art students of Mrs. Robert Gaskill, SHOSHONE. The teacher gives instruction one day each week with the classes now meeting in the basement of the Paulson home. Members usually frame their own paintings as did both Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Paulson.

Flood Work Is Approved In Minidoka

RUPERT — Watershed and flood control work has been approved for Minidoka county according to an announcement made Thursday after a meeting of soil conservationists and other county officials.

Minidoka county's application for planning assistance for watershed and flood control under the Small Watersheds Act has been approved by the Idaho Association Conservation Districts.

Work on the watershed project, which is a two-year project, will probably begin this summer, according to Jack Walker, engineer in charge of watersheds for SCS of Idaho.

Walker said that Public Law 566, which allows for watershed and flood protection, is a community program and local people must take a strong interest if the work is to be undertaken.

He also noted that there would be some cost involved and local people would be responsible for rights of way and operation and maintenance after the project is completed.

A low interest loan is available for such work and payment could be spread over a 50-year period, according to Walker. No estimate of cost is available yet.

A sponsoring agent is needed, he said, one which could guarantee maintenance and operation for 50 years. A sponsor could be an organization such as the county or an irrigation district.

Minidoka county's application was one of four submitted recently and on of two acted up

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

Can the Old Fashioned Church Survive in a Modern Age?

REV. PAUL WHITFIELD

Tyler Street Baptist Church

We often hear the expression, "Things are not like they were in the good old days." Every time I hear this expression I say to myself, "I am certainly glad of that."

If you are a romantic, you, I am sure can find much in the "By-gone" days that were wonderful. Let us think for a moment about the day in which we live.

Even with the mounting world problems we live in a truly fascinating world. Even as the "Old Times" makes its statement about the "Good old Days," chances are he is leaning back in his electric, vibrating, reclining rocker watching his favorite TV program. His house is heated by a completely modern, automatic heating system, and the days of carrying fuel from the back porch are gone forever.

In the attached and heated garage you may even find a pair of cars marked "His, and Hers." This is just a glimpse of the advancements we enjoy every day in our wonderful American way of life. Yes, I must be honest and admit that I do appreciate the advancements and comforts that science has given us today.

However there is one danger that has become evident in this day of change. We are being told every day that the church must change to keep up with a modern society. This change ranges all the way from the songs we sing to the theology that we "preach."

I was shocked recently when I read where William J. Reynolds, director of editorial services for the Church music department of the Baptist on immediately. The decision to apply for watershed and flood control planning came about a year ago, after the December, 1964, floods, when all of the agencies involved met and decided to apply for planning assistance.

A group composed of soil conservationists, representatives of the Minidoka and Walcott SC Districts, Minidoka and A-B Irrigation Districts, Minidoka Highway District and county commissioners traveled to Boise recently to explain the necessity of such a program for Minidoka county.

Sunday School Board in Nashville, Tenn., said, "Changes in word meanings and modern theology are making some famous hymns outdated." Mr. Williams went on to say "heaven in today's theology is an abstraction which makes these old hymns seem naive."

In the field of morals, church leaders like, Vicar Lester Kinsolving are being quoted with statements like this: "When and if science is able to eliminate any possibility of venereal disease or extramarital conception there must be a revised sexual morality adopted by the church unless the church is to continue being identified with needless and obstinate repression."

In the field of theology we have men like Dr. Thomas J. J. Altizer, the professor at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., who would have us believe that, "God is Dead." Men like Nels F. S. Ferre, called by NEWS-

WEEK, "One of the ten most influential ministers in America," tells us, "The Christian faith can no longer take for granted either its primitive historic basis or its obvious crude and sometimes even immoral doctrinal development."

Now we ask the question, how much of this talk do we listen to? I read in the Bible that Jesus is the same Yesterday, Today, and Forever. Martin Luther said, "It will be easier to transport a rock from the Alps than to remove me a finger's breadth from the Word of God."

Dr. Clyde M. Narramore, educator, counselor, and contemporary Christian said, "The Bible is not merely a bland background or a lace cap for scientific discovery. It is the glorious authority for life itself. It not only sets forth the only hope of our redemption and life eternal through Jesus Christ, crucified and risen; it is the glorious manual and guide book of our daily lives." Let me remind you that even in this day of great technical advancements all that we know is built on many old truths. We read about a new math-but two plus two still equal four. White and black are still opposites and man still has to reckon with gravity.

I also believe that Bible Truth is as valid today as it was in Grandfathers' day. We have changed many of the methods we use in a well equipped, modern church program, but this does not mean that the message should change. The mission of the church today is still to bring to man the Gospel message of God's saving GRACE.

IDAHO WILD TURKEYS, brought in from Colorado beginning in the winter of 1961, now number at least 500. The 39 transplants of the largest American upland game bird found conditions suitable in the lower drainage of the Salmon River. Now their offspring are being used to start other wild flocks.

Transplanted Turkeys From Colorado Produce Many Native Birds for Idaho

By MILT WILLIAMS
Idaho Fish Game Department
BOISE — The wild Merriam's turkey, commonly called the "mountain turkey," is by nature not one to sit still or stay put in one place for very long.

On the contrary, he is quite a traveler, logging anywhere from less than a mile to several miles each day.

Given a hand by modern game management techniques, some of these big birds have come to be very well traveled creatures. The parent stock was transported in the first place all the way from Colorado, and the offspring are subject to further long range travel as trapping and transplanting to spread them throughout new ranges within the state takes place.

The 39 Colorado transplants obtained in three separate shipments during the winters of 1961, 1962, and 1963 found conditions somewhat to their liking in their new home along the rugged Salmon River near Riggs and Whitebird.

A year ago field checks by Fish and Game Department personnel indicated the wary game birds had increased their numbers to around 500, with the birds widely dispersed in small flocks in the general vicinity of the three original release sites.

Wildness is a natural trait of the Merriam's turkey and prolonged captivity has definite adverse effects on its well-being, temperamentally as well as physically. Because of this, it is not practical to raise them at game farms.

The only successful means of introducing them to new, distant ranges is by live trapping and transplanting. The ability to adapt and multiply that was demonstrated by the Gom state's latest wild immigrants has set the stage for such a program of expansion.

A flock of 19 turkeys was found a year ago inhabiting one of the canyons on Rapid River near the site of the 1962 introduction. Their location was easily accessible to department trappers, so they were chosen for the first capture attempt.

The daily movements of the birds to and from their roosting place was observed and a trap of turkeys in other parts of the state. Eleven were planted in the St. Maries area last month — another segment of the department's Five Point Program for progress in fish and game management. Some shooting of birds out of season has been reported. (Fish and Game photo) stay with the wary old hen who was too wise to enter the trap. The other 13 were quickly boxed up and carted northward.

On the way to a selected release site near St. Maries, one gobbler and a hen were dropped off at Lewiston and released a short while later at the Craig Mountain planting site to bolster their route of travel and not far uphill from the roosting area.

As before, on Rapid River, the presence of the men did not appear to alarm the turkeys. In fact, the activities of pounding stakes and iron rods for the trap had no visible effect on their behavior as the birds passed within 60 or 70 feet.

The men were amused to discover that the slamming of pickup truck doors and the starting of engines frequently elicited strutting demonstrations accompanied by the characteristic "gobble-gobble" from at least two indignant toms.

The trap site had been baited with grain several days prior to the erection of the trap, but there was no evidence that the turkeys had given way to temptation.

The morning after the trap was set, however, the flock was observed feeding on the grain outside the trap. The weather was balmy with very little snow on the ground. Normally turkeys steer very clear of bait sets when natural food is readily available.

For the next six days the trap and its bait were ignored. On the seventh day just after a fresh snowfall, the observer found most of them feeding inside the trap. Assistance was summoned by two-way radio. The next morning at daylight all but one of the 19 turkeys was in the trap when its two end gates were dropped.

Two young toms and three young hens were released to extend the range of these "big game" birds to other experimental release sites within the state, the second successful transplant was recently accomplished by Department trappers.

The latest episode took place on John Day Creek just a few miles from the locale of the 1963 release.

Again, 19 turkeys had been located and kept under surveillance. As further evidence of the successful mating of the turkeys since taking up residence in Idaho, only one of these was wearing a colored plastic neckband identifying it as a bird from the original Colorado stock.

That one was an old hen which led the trappers to surmise that the others were probably her own offspring. Wild turkeys are known to have large broods averaging 12 to 15 poults, and occasionally as many as 18. Survival of the young has been termed unusually high for such large ground-dwelling birds.

Daily observations revealed that the flock, which always kept tightly bunched, foraged up a small draw and onto a ridge during the day. By late

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT . . .

Vera Romaine, Jerome Teacher for 32 Years, Appreciated by Past Students

JEROME — "Correction does much, but encouragement does more," might well be the motto of Vera Romaine, well known Jerome teacher, who has taught for a total of 32 years in the Jerome school system.

One of her former students, who is now a teacher himself, expressed his feelings toward Miss Romaine as a warm, successful teacher with this poem by an unknown author:

Her pupils learned what they lived in her classes.
We lived with praise and we learned to appreciate.
We lived with tolerance and we learned to be patient.
We lived with fairness and we learned justice.

We lived with security and we learned to have faith.

We lived with approval and we learned to like ourselves.
We lived with acceptance and friendship and we learned to find love in the world.

"She is the kind of a teacher that you can't do enough for, her encouragements inspire you to raise your hopes higher," he stated.

Another of her former students, who has dedicated himself to an ecclesiastic life, stated that he felt she had taught children how to live and face life, not just what was written on a printed page.

Another student remembered the disciplined, well-organized classes and the businesslike manner in which they were conducted. She remembered the laughter and the joy of being one of Miss Romaine's students. She stated, "Every teacher should strive for a way of channeling creativity which seems to be one of the intangible assets of Vera Romaine."

Miss Romaine was born Feb. 3, 1909, in Twin Falls. Her father, George Romaine, operated a hardware store and worked as a carpenter. Her parents were awaiting her birth before moving to Hailey.

Her mother died when Vera was 10 days old and Romaine moved to Hailey with the small baby, Vera, and her brother, Veri, who was two years older.

For a period of approximately nine months, Romaine attempted to hire housekeepers to care for his home and children.

Fish and Game Commission can make based on the status of the turkey population and other considerations.

It is entirely probable that when the decision is made to allow hunting, it will necessarily be by the issuance of a set number of permits, until and unless turkey numbers are high enough to warrant less severe controls.

Whatever form the hunts may take, when the habitat is right and the turkeys have taken hold, hunting under carefully regulated seasons is no limiting factor.

Rather, it helps disperse them over the suitable portions of the range as well as maintain the degree of wildness necessary for turkeys to be healthy, thrifty and able to fend for themselves at all times of the year.

Hopeful Idaho hunters who have already expressed a greater amount of interest in the turkey program than any other game transplants in recent years, can share in the attempt to hasten the day when the big birds will be legal game by helping to protect them now.

VERA ROMAINE

This was a difficult problem and during the times when he couldn't find someone he would bring the baby to the home of Mrs. W. H. Bailey.

Mrs. Bailey had lost her husband just prior to this time and found release from her grief in caring for the baby. She kept the baby several times and returned her to Romaine when he found a new housekeeper. However, she decided that she could not take the child again and then have her taken away.

When Romaine approached her again to take the baby, she told him that if she took the child she would expect to raise her as her own. Romaine agreed to this since he was finding it so difficult to obtain reliable help. So it was that "Mom Bailey" came into Miss Romaine's life.

Miss Romaine was graduated from the Hailey High school and Albion State Teacher's college. She has added to her education seven years of college work and finished a three year extension course at the Chicago Music Conservatory. She has taken courses at the Southern Idaho College of Education, Albion, and the College of Idaho, Caldwell.

She has added courses in extension and night school from Idaho State University, Pocatello, and correspondence courses from the University of Idaho, Moscow. At the present time she is working toward her bachelor's degree.

Miss Romaine has a life diploma which does not expire. She began her teaching career in 1928 at the Sugar Loaf school in the Jerome school system where she taught the first four grades.

She taught three years at Hailey, teaching the second and third grades, and teaching the upper grades, music and art.

She then accepted a position in the Minidoka schools and taught for one year and resigned to teach a standard and advanced First Aid class for the American Red Cross.

The following summer, she opened a Dramatic Kindergarten in Hailey for children from 3 to 13. She wrote and directed pageant of play entitled "The Old Woman in the Shoe" which speaking parts for all of the children in the kindergarten. She remembers that Bill Werry, now Jerome, was one of the stars of the play.

In 1936, she accepted a position at the Canyon school and transferred to Washington school, in the Jerome school system, in 1940. She taught at Washington school until February of this year when she was forced to take a leave of absence because of illness.

In her earlier years of teaching, she was asked to teach a class of children in water colors. She had not been trained for this, so she simply wrote to art stores throughout the country asking for samples and examples and spent the summer learning how.

Another time, she stated, she was asked to start a harmonica band for which she had no training. She wrote to various music houses for any help they might be able to give and learned to play the harmonica while she taught the children.

"We had a wonderful time and the entire class learned to read music," she commented.

One of her main interests during the years has been music and dancing. During the years she spent teaching at Hailey an annual opera was presented for the parents and friends of the students.

She continued this practice upon moving to Jerome and remembers one such performance entitled "The Passing of Winter" in which the star came down with the mumps the day of the presentation. However, the tradition that the "show must go on" prevailed, although he missed the next three weeks of school.

Prior to another such presentation she broke her big toe the night before the scheduled performance and did not have time to see a doctor. However, by that evening her foot was so swollen that she had to borrow her landlord's house slipper for a shoe.

She remembers vividly being called to the stage for a presentation wearing the large slipper. She walked on crutches for six weeks after the performance.

Miss Romaine introduced folk dancing and square dancing to Washington school and has taught these classes every year until 1965. She stated that she learned from the book and determined her own methods and rules for teaching the children.

During the 1950 Magic Valley Square Dance Festival, she directed the 60 students who performed at intermission time.

During her years of teaching she taught under the platoon system, teaching music in the auditorium to eight classes which came to her.

Miss Romaine is a member of the Rebekah lodge and has served as vice grand and noble grand at Hailey and also at Jerome. She served as treasurer at the Hailey lodge.

She has served as pianist in the Jerome lodge since 1950 and has served on many program committees. She was re-elected secretary this past year but resigned recently because of illness.

She has a lifetime membership in NEA and is a member of IEA and JEA. She has served as treasurer, secretary and vice president of JEA. She resigned before becoming president.

She is a member of the Calvary Episcopal Church and has worked with the children's choir and the vacation church school in the music department. She also served as superintendent of the Sunday School.

She spent one entire summer compiling an inventory of all memorials and thank-offerings presented to the church and is serving as custodian of the memorial book.

It is easy to see that the challenge in Miss Romaine's life has been the children she has taught.

Parents provide the foundation and early formative years for a child but it is up to the teachers to assist in building the student into the adult they become.

Miss Romaine already may have guessed that her success lies in the men and women she has helped to aspire toward that brighter tomorrow.

PANTING FOR BREATH, several taking part in the week-end Cub Scout session at the Presbyterian Cabin in the South Hills appear over a rise. It is noted that the first in line — a Cub — carries a large bedroll while the adult behind him thereafter by his son who discovered it in the bottom of his own sleeping bag.

Early Sunday morning John Carter Sr., suffering an allergy which made it difficult for him to breathe, had to trudge down the snow-slopes to the car and a fast drive back to Twin Falls.

He was not alone. With him were his son, John Jr., with an injured knee, and James Wright, with an injured back, both acquired while coasting.

That left only a few of the more hardy ones — or who were unable to move for one reason or another — still in the cabin. Before dark that same day they were all back in Twin Falls, in one condition or another.

And the mothers who waited anxiously at home? At this reading they are still sorting out and exchanging various socks, mittens, shorts and related camping and outdoor material.

Then there was Cub Mark Gerber who stuck it out to the bitter end, but who returned to town with the flu. Said young Gerber, "Guess what, Mom? We learned how to build a fire in five feet of snow."

It might be well right here to close this narrative with the roster of the brave fathers, Cubs and Scouts who thought of this trip in the first place.

The fathers were Harold Gerber, John Carter Sr., Don Jensen, David Mead, William

Heinemann and Dr. E. M.

Wright. Of these six men, Jensen and Dr. Wright heaved sighs of relief when they caught the flu and had to stay in bed at home.

Cub Scouts originally signed up for the jaunt were Mark Gerber, John Carter Jr., David Jensen, John Mead, Darrell Heinemann, James Wright, Bruce Wright and Mike Schabacker. Bruce Wright never made it.

Boy Scouts thinking they would drag along were Charles Lemmon, the den chief, and George Carter. They both remained in Twin Falls with the flu.

Which all adds up to one thing. Fathers who raise boys through Cub Scouting and Boy Scouting know they have been someplace when it is all over and the boys are grown up.

Staying around until the youngsters do grow up is enough to expect of any dad — without going on all these winter camping trips.

As one mother admitted her husband said:

HOME GROWN FIGS: Believe it or not, you can grow figs right in your own backyard, even if the temperature drops below zero.

How do you do it? There are three ways you can get a crop of fig fruit. (1) Grow them out in a bush form, and give them winter protection; (2) in pots brought indoors in fall and stored in the cellar during winter; and (3) under glass in either a heated or a cold greenhouse with some heat.

The best way to grow figs outdoors is to let them grow in a bush form since it's much simpler to give the shrub winter protection. About Nov. 15, you draw the branches together into a bundle and tie them. Then take a sharp spade, dig down on one side of the roots, so that the bush can be tipped over flat to the ground.

After you bend it down, weight it with a large stone or a cement block, or tie it down with some stakes driven into the ground. Cover the branches with four inches of soil, or cover with tarpaulin.

Some place a board over the branches and cover with tarpaulin to keep water out. Another trick is to build a cold-frame over the plant.

Sounds like a lot of work, but when you get a bush loaded with sugar-sweet figs, you'll agree that it's worth the effort.

You can start fig trees from cuttings rooted in the soil, or you can buy dwarf trees from nurseries.

the scales and feed them to your goldfish.

RABBIT TROUBLE: If rabbits have chewed on limbs and bark of trees and shrubs, does that mean they're dead?

Not necessarily. If the trunk is completely girdled, the top, or part above the girdle will starve out and die. The bottom will remain alive.

Years ago a pear tree was girdled by rabbits and I cut the tree back above the wound. It sent forth new growth and the tree has borne fruit each year.

Limbs sometime have their ends gnawed, especially during a snow period. The injured portions can be cut back to live tissue and new growth will come out.

Sometimes mice will girdle a fruit tree in the area where it was budded to the rootstock. In such instances the tree is lost and should be replaced.

COCONUT FEEDER: Recently I mentioned that a reader sent me a birdfeeder made from a coconut shell. He made two small holes in the sides and scooped out the meat. Another reader tells me that there's no need to scoop the meat from the inside. Let the birds do it.

She made a small opening on each side and hung the shell in a tree. Soon the opening got larger and larger and the birds ate the meat inside. More seeds can be poured into the hollow center after the birds made the holes larger.

By the way, if you're having trouble with larger birds eating food of smaller birds, eliminate the problem by having two feeders. Make one open to the larger birds, and another with space just large enough for the smaller types.

Feeding wild birds is a rewarding hobby and we should feed them all, whether large or small.

SWEET ONIONS: A reader tells us he planted the large hamburger onions last year and they all turned out "hot." Why?

A lack of water causes sweet onions to turn hot. We didn't think you could grow the red onions around here, but these can be just as sweet as the large Spanish or Bermuda types. For a red type, try the Burgundy and Southport Red Globe. Bulbs are round, large and small-necked, with purplish red skin, and flesh is white tinged with pink.

QUESTION BOX

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: C. F. of Burley: "A year ago Christmas I received a poinsettia plant that had eight large blooms on it. I followed your directions for keeping the plant for another year. It grew into a beautiful plant, but nary a blossom last Christmas. I put in some artificial blooms and it fooled the people. I want real blooms on it but heard you need to apply certain dwarfing chemicals to the soil. Is that true?"

The dwarfing chemicals (growth retardants) have nothing to do with blossoms, but merely control the height of the plants. In other words, they slow down the growth rate, thus reducing height and improving foliage color.

More than 80 per cent of all potted chrysanthemums are treated with growth retardants.

Your failure to get the poinsettia to bloom can be attributed to too much light in the fall and winter months. It should be kept in a dark room at 5 p.m. and bringing it out in light at 8 a.m.

Commercial growers apply growth retardants in two ways. Sprays on the foliage, and soil drenches. Both means are effective in controlling the height of poinsettias. These don't shrink tall plants but prevent plants from growing tall, merely by reducing cell division and "cell stretching."

A. J. of Bellevue: "We want to start our own penumia seed. Do you sow them in rows or

It grew into a beautiful plant, but nary a blossom last Christmas. I put in some artificial blooms and it fooled the people. I want real blooms on it but heard you need to apply certain dwarfing chemicals to the soil. Is that true?"

The dwarfing chemicals (growth retardants) have nothing to do with blossoms, but merely control the height of the plants. In other words, they slow down the growth rate, thus reducing height and improving foliage color.

More than 80 per cent of all potted chrysanthemums are treated with growth retardants.

Your failure to get the poinsettia to bloom can be attributed to too much light in the fall and winter months. It should be kept in a dark room at 5 p.m. and bringing it out in light at 8 a.m.

Commercial growers apply growth retardants in two ways. Sprays on the foliage, and soil drenches. Both means are effective in controlling the height of poinsettias. These don't shrink tall plants but prevent plants from growing tall, merely by reducing cell division and "cell stretching."

RABBIT TROUBLE: If rabbits have chewed on limbs and bark of trees and shrubs, does that mean they're dead?

Not necessarily. If the trunk is completely girdled, the top, or part above the girdle will starve out and die. The bottom will remain alive.

Years ago a pear tree was girdled by rabbits and I cut the tree back above the wound. It sent forth new growth and the tree

If you are under 35, you may just be getting a good start in life. No matter what kind of hospital insurance you have, it won't pay your household bills and other family living expenses. With rent or mortgage payments, new furniture, clothing bills, and all the other expenses young families have, a serious accident or illness might "wipe you out" financially.

If you are 35 to 65, your children may now be at the costliest stage of their schooling. Your living expenses are probably higher than ever, and your chances of going to the hospital are increasing every year. Read how an American Republic "Direct Cash Plan" may keep you from having to dig into your savings if you have to spend weeks—or even months—in the hospital.

If you are 65 or over, you can look forward to having Medicare, but you will still have to pay part of your hospital bills—and you will also have other bills to pay. An American Republic "Direct Cash Plan" can provide money for everyday expenses and also for doctor bills and hospital costs—including private room and private nurse—that Medicare won't cover.

Now, whether you are 25...55...or 85...when you are sick or injured...

COLLECT $52.50 . . . $105 . . . OR $157.50 A WEEK, JUST LIKE WAGES, WHILE IN THE HOSPITAL

Whether you are under 65 and have regular hospital insurance—or over 65 and looking forward to Medicare—it will pay you to read the facts about the new "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan."
Discover how you could go to the hospital and come out with money left over.

What if you should wake up to find yourself flat on your back in a hospital bed—and be there for weeks or even months? Think of all the things that $2,000 or $5,000 or $8,000 in extra spendable cash, over and above your hospital insurance, could mean.

Cash to make mortgage payments. Cash to buy food. Cash to meet car payments—pay for child care—buy gasoline—buy school clothes—pay a tax bill.

The new American Republic "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan" can pay you badly needed cash every week you are in the hospital, for up to a full year.

This new service of Americare™ is designed to go hand-in-hand with Medicare or any other health insurance you may now have.

Easy As 1 . . . 2 . . . 3 . . .

Protection under the new American Republic "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan" is available in individual protection "units."

You simply decide how many of these units you need for your particular coverage requirements—and put them together like building blocks. For example:

The "1-UNIT" PLAN pays you $52.50 per week actual cash (at the rate of $7.50 a day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to accident or illness. This plan can pay you as much as $2,737.50 if you are hospitalized for a full year.

The "2-UNIT" PLAN pays you $105.00 per week (at the rate of $15.00 a day) for each week you are in the hospital—up to as much as $5,475.00 if you should be in the hospital a full year.

The "3-UNIT" PLAN pays you $157.50 per week (at the rate of $22.50 a day) for each week you are in the hospital—up to a total of $8,212.50 if you are hospitalized for a full year.

Your decision is easy. Just choose the plan that fits your needs best. And best of all, no matter which you choose, you get all these advantages:

- Cash is paid direct to you. It is yours to spend any way you please.

- It is LifeGuarded Protection.® This means it is Guaranteed Renewable. It can be YOURS FOR LIFE as long as you make timely payments of the current premium. It can NEVER be cancelled by the Company because of age, health, or number of claims.

- Pays whether you are in the hospital for injury OR sickness.

- Pays in addition to any other insurance carried with American Republic or any other company. Even pays in addition to Workmen's Compensation or Medicare.

- You are covered during any hospital confinement for any accident from the date your policy is issued, and for any sickness that begins after 30 days from date of issue. Unless, of course, your hospital care is due to war, mental disorder, maternity, dental work, or when you are in a U. S. Government or Veterans Hospital.

- NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION, regardless of your age—and there is NO AGE LIMIT.

- Benefits are increased 10% if premium is paid annually in advance, or increased 5% if premium is paid semi-annually in advance.

Protection That PAYS

According to latest 5-year figures, American Republic returned a greater percent of premium dollars to policyholders in claim benefits than any of the other Top 40 insurance companies offering individual accident and health insurance. So, when you own this protection, you have protection that PAYS.

Why not send for full information today? It's easy. Just fill out and mail the attached postage-free air mail card, or write to American Republic Insurance Company, Des Moines, Iowa.
